SLAIN BAR OWNER
HAD EXPRESSED
FEAR THAT MILES
WOULD SHOOT HIM

Police Sergeant Testifies Charles O'Neal Complained That Son of Justice of Peace Flourished Revolver in His Saloon in Washington Hotel.

SHOOTING FOLLOWED
DEMAND FOR WHISKY

Slayer Fired When Refused a Drink of Liquor, Then Fled—Had Authority as Deputy Constable to Carry Weapon.

It was disclosed today, at the inquest in the murder of Charles O'Neal yesterday in the barroom of the Washington Hotel by James P. Miles Jr., following O'Neal's refusal to give Miles a drink of whisky, that Miles had been harassing O'Neal with a revolver for several weeks and that O'Neal had been fearful of his life.

Miles, whose job as Deputy Constable in the court of his father, Justice of the Peace James P.
(Jimmy) Miles, gives him the right to carry a revolver, in spite of his long police record, has dodged the police since the murder, although a general order from his arrest was issued a few minutes after O'Neal was shot to death at 4:30 p. m.

Asked for Whisky.
O'Neal, part owner of the barroom, which is in the basement of the hotel at King's highway and Washington boulevard, was at the end of the bar when Miles, apparently under the influence of liquor, swaggered in from a corridor, and in a gruff voice, demanded a whisky. O'Neal, not knowing his condition, replied: "It isn't whisky you want, Jimmy; it's money and soda. I'll give you some of that."

Without another word Miles drew his revolver and shot O'Neal, who fell wounded in the left side.
Miles ran out and O'Neal crawled to an adjoining room, where he died before the hotel physician could reach him.

"Rudy" Schaefer, O'Neal's partner in the saloon business, testified at the inquest, said he was reading a paper at the east end of the barroom when Miles entered.
As Miles called for the whisky Schaefer looked up and then resumed reading. When the shot was fired, Schaefer again looked up and saw Miles running into the corridor.

"Just before Miles came in two other men had ordered lemon and soda," said Schaefer, "and when Miles called for whisky O'Neal replied: 'You'd better take some lemon and soda, or something to that effect. The other men ran from the barroom when O'Neal was shot. I did not recognize him."

Schaefer added that Miles was at the place Monday night flourishing his revolver and was taken out by a detective, who helped him into a taxi cab. He did not know the detective. Later in the night Miles returned and apologized to O'Neal for the way he had acted,
Schaefer said.

Asked by the Coroner if he had heard that Miles held the barroom recently, Schaefer replied that O'Neal told him a few days ago
that Miles held him up one night in the early part of last month and the next day returned the money he had taken. O'Neal did not mention the amount taken, Schaefer said.

Police Sergeant Louis Myers testified that O'Neal conducted Monday evening in these words: "He came in here flourishing his gun and threatening to kill people. I'm a constable and I can't have him arrested for carrying a weapon. I spoke to his father about him and he promised he would keep him away from here."

Sgt. Myers' continuing testimony was that someone suggested that O'Neal stay away from the place around and that O'Neal replied:
"It's a hell of a note a man has to stay away from his place of business."

K S D SENDS NEWS
FOR ASSOCIATED PRESS
WHEN WIRES FAIL

STORM interference with telegraph communication to points east and northeast of St.
Louis today made it necessary to enlist the aid of radio in the transmission of Associated Press news bulletins from St.
Louis to Chicago. The emergency service was given by Station KSD, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

News matter originating at Southern points and ordinarily sent by wire through the storm-affected district were transmitted by radio from Station KSD which got into direct touch with Station WMAQ, the Chicago Daily News.

O. K. BOVARD OPERATED ON FOR APPENDICITIS LAST NIGHT
Managing Editor of the Post-Dispatch in Serious Condition, but Today's Symptoms Are Favorable.

Oliver K. Bovard, managing editor of the Post-Dispatch, was operated on last night at St. Luke's Hospital for appendicitis by Dr.
Paul Y. Tupper. It was said today at the hospital that although his condition was grave the symptoms following the operation were favorable.

Mr. Bovard has been continuously with the Post-Dispatch since 1893, having risen from the position of reporter to that of managing editor. His home is at Log Cabin Lane and Clayton road, St.
Louis County. He is 51 years old.
He became ill at his desk Monday afternoon.

His father, C. W. Bovard, 81 years old and formerly for years telegraph editor of the Post-Dispatch, but who retired 20 years ago, is also seriously ill at his own home in St. Louis County.

$500,000 CARRIED BY PLANE Money to Meet Run on One Bank After Another Is Closed.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Feb. 6.
—The Citizens' National Bank failed to open yesterday. Its directors issued a statement saying that heavy withdrawals during the last few days made their action necessary. The bank has a capital of $1,000,000. Its statement of Dec. 31 last showed deposits of $837,193.

Before the First National Bank opened yesterday many were waiting at its doors and during the day scores of deposits were withdrawn. Bank officials announced that $500,000 had been brought here by airplane from El Paso, Tex., and that an additional $500,000 would be sent from that city by train. They said the money would be furnished by the Federal Reserve Bank. First National officials said that about $200,000 was withdrawn yesterday. More than 200 business men met and pledged their faith in the institutions.

Just before Miles came in two
other men had ordered lemon and soda," said Schaefer, "and when Miles called for whisky O'Neal replied: 'You'd better take some
lemon and soda, or something to

Miles returned and apologized to O'Neal for the way he had acted,
Schaefer said.

Asked by the Coroner if he had
heard that Miles held the bar-
room recently, Schaefer replied that O'Neal told him a few days ago
that Miles held him up one night

to stay away from his place of business."

WIFE CONFESSES
SHE HELPED TOSS
FARMER IN WELL

Mrs. Peter Saali and Neighbor Man Held for Attempt at Murder in St.
Charles County Thursday

HUSBAND STRUCK ON HEAD WITH CLUB

Ora Thoele and Woman Tried to Push Body Under Water With a Pole,
She Tells Sheriff.

Ora Thoele, 42 years old and married, and Mrs. Peter Saali, 22 years old, the mother of five children, have confessed to authorities at St. Charles that they attempted to murder her husband, Peter, last Thursday evening.

Saali was found struggling in a well containing 14 feet of water, by his brother, Joe, who lived across the road from the Saali farm. Joe, hearing cries, ran to investigate and found Mrs. Saali calmly reading a magazine in the living room of the farmhouse.

"Where's Peter?" he inquired.
"He went out to the barn," she answered.

Rushing out, Joe again heard cries and ran to the well. He let down a bucket rope and drew his brother to safety.

Wife's Confession.
Mrs. Saali confessed to Sheriff Grothe this morning that she and Thoele had planned to murder her husband. Armed with a club, Thoele had waited for an hour and a half outside the door of the Saali home that evening.

Mrs. Saali attempted to lure her husband out. She told him she heard noises from the barn.

"Well, I'll go and look," he said, after the third time.

He stepped out and Thoele hit him twice on the head with a club.
Then he and Mrs. Saali carried the unconscious man to the well and pitched him in.

The cold water revived Saali and he struggled.

"We took a pole and pushed him down into the water," the wife said this morning, "but he kept coming up. We got scared when he commenced to holler and left the well."

Saali was unconscious for 24 hours after being rescued and his memory of events still is hazy. He says he thinks someone struck him on the head and the next thing he knew he was fighting for breath in the water. He is convalescing from his experience.

Thoele had confessed his part in the attempted murder yesterday.
Mrs. Saali went to St. Charles this morning with her children to attend the preliminary hearing of her accomplice. She was confronted with Thoele's statement. Breaking down, she told her story between outbursts of sobbing.

Mrs. Saali's Story.
"It began a year ago," she said.
"The horse I was driving to a busy ran away, leaving me on the road. Thoele came along in his automobile, picked me up and took me to St. Charles, where the cuts on my face were dressed."

"After that Thoele came to the farm a number of times and I got to like him. He would exchange work with Pete. The neighbors began to talk about us and we were worried. My husband heard of it and we quarreled."

"I told him I wouldn't see any more of Ora. He seemed satisfied, but we weren't. We met at a neighbor's last Wednesday and made plans to kill Pete. Ora was to come over with a club and wait outside the back door. I told him I would do something to get Pete to go outside."

"We Dropped Him in the Well."
"At first Pete wouldn't believe me when I told him the horses were making a noise in the barn.
But he finally got up, put on his hat and coat and boots and stepped out. Ora hit him with the club and he dropped on the steps. He picked him up and dragged him about 20 feet to the well. After we had dropped him in he heard him thrashing around and went back to push him under."

Clinging to the slippery cobble stones which walled the well, Saali called for help. When his brother arrived the imprisoned man called out "Who is it?" and had to be reassured before he would grasp the rope let down for him. He feared that he would be attacked again.

He was carried to the house and Mrs. Saali fainted when she saw him. Neighbors arrived and a physician was called.

GERMAN EMBASSY'S FLAG LOWERED TODAY OUT OF RESPECT TO MR. WILSON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—
The American flag was placed in front of the German Embassy early today by a crowd of men resentful of the delay in the announcement that the flag over the building would be placed at half-mast in mourning for Woodrow Wilson. The flag was removed after complaint had been made to the police.

The German Embassy, which has given no official public expression of mourning in the death of Mr. Wilson, flew its flag at half-staff, beginning at 12:30 this afternoon, when the executive departments of the American Government were closed to honor the memory of the former President.

In response to an inquiry late yesterday, officials of the embassy said:

"It having been officially announced that there will be general mourning for the late President Wilson after 12:30 o'clock, the German Embassy will join in the expression of the nation's mourning by flying its flag at half-staff."

State Department officials made no comment upon the incident, but District of Columbia officials of the American Legation announced that they were calling it to the attention of the National Commander and to the attention of Secretary Hughes
"for such action as lies within the power of this Government."

"When diplomacy fails of action in propriety and courtesy," Legion officials added, "there should be emphatic expression of disapproval on the part of the Government of the United States."

GERMANY DECIDES TO UTTER NO WORD OF CONDOLENCE

Berlin Press Supports Government in Attitude of Silence Concerning Wilson.

BERLIN, Feb. 6.—The attitude of the Foreign Office in refusing to extend official condolences on the death of Woodrow Wilson has resulted in a series of newspaper comment regarding the late President in which the Government's action meets with approval in some quarters while rebuked by others.

The following official statement was issued today:

"In response to an inquiry from the German Ambassador in Washington whether the condolences of the German Government on the death of Mr. Wilson shall be given official expression, the German Government informed Ambassador Wiedfeldt that an official expression of condolence by the German Government is to be dispensed with, but that the Ambassador may decide for himself whether and in what manner he may personally participate in the national ceremonies of mourning."

WOODROW WILSON LAID TO REST
'WHILE THOUSANDS STANDING IN STREETS PAY A SILENT TRIBUTE

Woodrow Wilson's Burial Place

Copyright by Underwood & Underwood.

THE cross in the aisle shows the place in the floor of Bethlehem Chapel of the National Cathedral where the coffin of former President Wilson was lowered into the crypt. There it will remain temporarily until the cathedral is finished. It may then be placed in the cathedral sepulchre, where famous dead of the nation will be entombed. It is the purpose of the cathedral trustees to make the building an American Westminster Abbey. Mr. Wilson is the first President to find his final resting place in the District of Columbia. Over the south door of the chapel are the words, "The way to peace."

2500 PERSONS ATTEND
WILSON SERVICES HERE

Prominent Citizens Pay Tribute to Memory of War-Time President—Taps Sounded by Army Buglers.

Twenty-five hundred St. Louisans, men and women being in almost equal number, attended the Woodrow Wilson memorial service in the Orpheum Theater today.
The audience began gathering an hour before the doors opened, and after the seats had been filled was many more entered as it was considered safe to admit, and the standing space at the rear of all the floors was fully occupied.

A large American flag draped the rear of the stage, and a draped portrait of the former President was displayed. Mourning draperies were suspended over the stage.
A color guard of Army, Navy and Marine Corps men stood at the rear and sides of the stage. Among those seated on the stage were former Ambassador Francis, whom President Wilson appointed to the post at Petrograd; Xenophon P.
Wilder, who was United States Senator for a part of President Wilson's administration; and Rolla Wells, former treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, a personal friend of Mr. Wilson.

Eulogies Frequently Applauded.
Applaud was frequent during the memorial addresses. At first, this seemed inappropriate, but the evident sincerity of the audience, in indorsing the words of eulogy, made it a genuine tribute, from those whom the occasion did not provide with any other means of expression.

Tolling of the bells of Christ Church Cathedral and other churches within hearing downtown, marked the opening of the one-hour memorial. When the end was reached, after the final prayer, the theater was darkened, and a ray of light from the gallery was directed upon the Wilson portrait, while two army buglers, one on the stage and one in the balcony, sounded "taps."

CAPITAL'S LIFE PAUSES; SIMPLE SERVICES AT HOME AND CATHEDRAL

Twenty-Four Comrades of the War

Funeral Procession.

ORCHIDS FROM SOLDIERS ONLY FLOWERS ON THE CASKET

Floral Tributes From Foreign Governments and Others Massed in Chapel at Cathedral, Where Crowds Stand Outside in Wintery Weather to Hear Ritual Through Amplifiers.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Woodrow Wilson passed forever today from the world stage where once he towered, a commanding figure.

In the sacred privacy of the home last rites were said—as simple as the faith of the man himself in the goodness of God.
Only the presence of the President and a few who were his colleagues in days of greatness and the quiet thousands waiting outside under wintry skies for a humble share in the last leave-taking marked this as the funeral of a great man.

There was more formal tone to the cathedral service which followed. There in the chapel that gives entrance to the vault of en-tomment were gathered the distinguished of Governments and many men of place and power in America. Organ note and the pealing voices of the choir added a touch of ceremony to the brief religious exercises. But at the very last the dead passed again into the keeping of his nearest and dearest, who alone might watch over the entombment and hear the resigned faith of the committal service uttered.

The nation's share in that last moment was only to stand in silent reverence outside while the tomb received the keeping of an honored American.

Life of Capital at Pause.
During the funeral service the busy life of the nation's capital stood at pause as elsewhere over America men did last honor to the dead. The drumming guns of sorrow echoed dully from the distant hills where Fort Meyer lies, guns that had heralded the dark, cloud-wrapped coming of day with the sombre clamor of salute to a dead commander. Wherever the flag flew it was half-masted in token of the nation's loss, proclaiming the sorrow of a great nation's people.

About the stricken home and at the cathedral were massed the flowers and wreaths that came pouring in today from every nearby city and town. There were formal pieces and many simple clusters of the fragrant blossoms. A story of the greatness of the man whose last earthly moment they marked was written on the cards. There were great names among them, those of Kings and Presidents and others in whose keeping today is the destiny of civilization.

Floral Tributes From Comrades.
Among the offerings were some from comrades who served in the great war under the fallen chief, served in the fighting ranks of the nation. They bore such legends as "To Our Comrade," "To Our Chief" and "From His Comrades."

The levelness of the blooms will

$10 A POINT REPORTED STAKE IN BRIDGE PLAY

Players Representing Racquet Club and Team From Los Angeles in Tournament.

Bridge at stakes of $5 or $10 a point—so report in club circles has it—is the game which two players representing the Racquet Club of St. Louis and two of a team of three sent by the Los Angeles Athletic Club are playing in a three-day tournament at the Racquet Club.

The modest quotations per point is not alarming unless one has played ridge. Then one knows that in such a game, with the bidder "doubled" and set, he loses 100 points for each trick he fails of his contract.

At noon today the Los Angeles players were 126 points ahead. The tournament began yesterday afternoon, when 10 rubbers were played, continued in the evening, when 14 more rubbers passed, and is on again today.

It is understood the players are not risking entirely their personal funds, but that members of each club have been "let in" on guarantees of percentages of profits or losses. There also has been considerable betting on the outcome of the tournament.

Descriptions of the play thus far are lacking due to reticence on the part of club members. However, it was said by some of the 100 or so who crowded into the room to watch the tournament that both clubs are playing hard, close games. In bridge, as in poker, the

C. Drummond Jones and Bryant McCampbell, author of "McCampbell on Bridge," represent the Racquet Club. The three members of the Los Angeles Club are Maurice C. Myer, Mark L. Tungate and Roy L. Sergeant. One of these drops out during alternate rubbers.

The tournament will consist of 60 rubbers. Twenty had been played up to this afternoon. There will be sessions afternoon and evening today and afternoon and evening tomorrow.

Jones denied that high stakes were involved, saying the clubs were playing for 10 cents a point and a cup.

● Miles surrendered to the police Oct. 6, 1922, after he had been sought for more than two weeks in connection with the shooting and wounding of Clark Kretschmar in a saloon at 5551 Delmar boulevard. After the shooting, policemen pursued an automobile from the saloon and found it to be that of Mrs. Miles Jr. They arrested an associate of Miles in an alley in the rear of the Miles' home on Shawmut place, where the automobile had been abandoned. Kretschmar said that Miles was not the man who shot him and Miles was released.

Although arrested many times in connection with police investigations,

CARR SURRENDERS ON DEMAND; BOND
RAISED TO $50,000Cashier of Old Chippewa Bank Held to Answer Any Charge Made by Grand Jury.TAKEN TO COURT AT SIDENER'S REQUESTProsecutor Says He Has Information That Defalcation Was Greater Than
He Had Expected.

Joseph S. Carr, cashier of the old Chippewa Bank, 2801 Broadway, whose private operations have involved the bank's accounts to the amount of $710,000, was surrendered today in court on demand of Circuit Attorney Sidener and his bond increased from $25,000 to $50,000, to answer any charge that may be placed against him by the grand jury.

The new bond was perfected and Carr was again released at 11 o'clock, to remain at liberty pending action of the grand jury. Carr was taken before Circuit Judge Ittner by his counsel, Thomas B. Harlan, who was notified yesterday to bring Carr in.

The Circuit Attorney made no explanation to the Court of his demand for a larger bond, but told reporters that he had information that there had been a defalcation greater than he expected.

"But I have no concrete evidence as yet," said the Circuit Attorney, "due to the fact that the State Bank Examiners have not yet submitted their audit for the grand jury."

New Bond Prepared.
Carr was ordered into the custody of a Deputy Sheriff while the new bond was being prepared. His security on the old $25,000 bond were Harlan, L. B. Smuts, insurance man, and Harry F. Tacke, a contractor. Tacke was left off the new bond. Frank J. Binz, president of the Monroe (La.) Carbon Co. and of the Binz Hide and Tallow Co., took his place, with Harlan and Smuts as the other two.

On Dec. 29 the shortage due to Carr's operations was found to be $510,000, but since then, the Post-Dispatch has learned, it has mounted to $710,000.

As has been told, Carr got into difficulties by speculation in real estate, oil and other ventures that he essayed with the bank's money. An investigation by State bank examiners has disclosed that many accounts of depositors were looted and that the accounts were otherwise manipulated to prevent discovery of these operations.

The February grand jury was instructed Monday by Circuit Judge Ittner to take up the Chippewa Bank failure and to investigate and report on the State bank examination system, under which several disastrous failures have occurred in the last few years. Judge Ittner did not wish to reflect on the personnel of the State Finance Department, but believes the system should be investigated with a view to preventing failures and great losses to depositors.

Outlying Banks Association Acts in Chippewa Bank Case.
The situation in the Chippewa Bank failure was discussed at a meeting of the Outlying Banks Association Thursday, at which a committee was appointed to investigate possible criminal aspects of Carr's operations and to offer, if necessary, special prosecuting counsel.

A second committee was appointed and given authority to create a $1,000,000 blanket bond to indemnify outlying banks against losses through acts of any officials or employees, especially of a criminal nature.

Alex Mittenberger, president of Tower Grove Bank, was made chairman of the committee that is to investigate Carr's operations and offer prosecuting counsel, and George W. Clarkson, president of the Grand Avenue Bank, was made chairman of the Bond Committee. Neither would discuss what occurred at the meeting.

The Chippewa Bank closed Dec. 21. Its September statement showed deposits of $2,453,121, and capital, surplus and undivided profits amounting to $235,000. Carr, the cashier, confessed to directors and bank examiners that his accounts were involved and he turned over property and collateral, upon which he placed a value of $1,000,000, to reimburse the bank. An appraisal is being made of this property to determine its exact value. It included Carr's 63-acre place in St. Louis County, where he has resided since the failure.

Man Killed by Train.
John P. Strong, 50 years old, 1815 Natallie avenue, East St. Louis, was killed by a Baltimore & Ohio passenger train at 5:40 p. m. yesterday at St. Clair avenue and the Baltimore & Ohio tracks, when, after a freight train going in an opposite direction had passed, he walked by closed gates, unaware that the passenger train was about to pass. Strong was returning from work with two companions, and was the first of the three who attempted to pass. He is survived by a wife and children.

Famous Old Recipe For Cough Syrup

Quickly and Cheaply Made at Home. But It Beats Them All for Quick Results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup. It is simple and cheap, but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any drugist, pour it into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey or corn syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract known for centuries ever for its healing effect on membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your drugist for "Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after-effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or "aloms." They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums, so do strong liquids. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "biliousness" and that uneasy feeling come from constipation, and disappear. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "fed up" and "tired." They "clear" clouded brains and "perk up" drooping spirits. 10c and 50c.

MRS. DE BOUCHEL ON HER WAY TO RENO

"Surprised and Disappointed," Says Woman Who Lost $500,000 Suit Against Candler.

By the Associated Press.
ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 6.—Mrs. Oeime de Bouchel of New Orleans, "surprised and disappointed," as she expressed it, over a jury's verdict in favor of Asa G. Candler Sr., Coca-Cola "king" of Atlanta, in her $500,000 breach of promise suit against him, today is on her way to Reno, Nev.

Mrs. de Bouchel's attorneys declined to comment upon the verdict which was returned late yesterday, and refused to say whether plans for an appeal were contemplated. "I am very happy," said Candler.

The suit was filed against Candler after he was charged with having broken off an engagement to marry Mrs. de Bouchel, following a courtship extending over a period of about two years. The marriage date was said to have been fixed and the engagement publicly announced shortly after Mrs. de Bouchel obtained a divorce from Adolph Roquet of New Orleans.

The jury in this case, Mrs. de Bouchel declared, "for technical reasons, was afforded no opportunity to condemn Mr. Candler and punish him for his inexcusable attack on my character."

Only one ballot was taken by the jury in its 80 minutes' deliberations. Neither of the principals was in the courtroom when the verdict was announced.

In his charge to the jury, the Court discussed at length the Nevada State law in regard to the validity of divorce decrees. He said the present case hinged on the question whether Mrs. de Bouchel was domiciled in Nevada when she obtained her divorce. If the plaintiff had established proper residence in that State, he declared, then the Court had a right to get, but if the jury decided the stay had not been a bona fide residence, her divorce was illegal, notwithstanding the decision of Nevada courts.

Validity of Divorce Attacked.
At the trial Candler's attorneys attacked the validity of the Reno (Nev.) decree of Sept. 21, 1931, which granted Mrs. de Bouchel a divorce from her husband, Adolph Roquet, of New Orleans, contending that she did not establish a domicile in Nevada. The decree being invalid, they contended, she could not become engaged to marry Candler and, therefore, any engagement existing for that purpose was not legal. They asserted that there was not sufficient evidence presented to give grounds for recovering damages.

Mrs. de Bouchel's counsel upheld the validity of her divorce decree and said she had in every way complied with the laws of the State of Nevada. The New Orleans woman, they contended, had determined to divorce Roquet before she met Candler in Atlanta during the Confederate veterans' reunion in 1919. She had offered to release him from the engagement, they continued, when it became apparent that there was opposition to the marriage on the part of his family, but that he refused to listen to the offer and insisted on the marriage.

Wedding Plans Were Arranged.
The wedding plans were all arranged, trousseau for the bride-to-be had been made, announcement cards printed, Mrs. de Bouchel had shipped her furniture to Candler's home in Atlanta, when, two days before the wedding, her petition declared, she received a letter from the Atlanta millionaire saying he could not marry her because it had been told him that two men had visited her room at the hotel in Atlanta, while she was attending the Confederate reunion in Atlanta in 1919, at night, for improper purposes.

Mrs. de Bouchel said she demanded the names of the alleged two men, but Candler declined to give them. She came to Atlanta finally, she asserted, in an effort to learn their names, but he steadfastly declined to make them known. Finally, she said, she entered suit to force the information from him.

EARTH SQUEEZED TO SIZE OF A PINPOINT

How the Scientists Show the Size of an Atom's Universe.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Recently physics has conceived the atom to be a tiny "solar system." The question then arises: How big is an atom's universe, and how does it compare with our universe? Making a model to give some little inkling of the size of our universe is not such an impossible task as might at first appear, says the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic Society, which classes the problem as a sort of "very special case of map making."

"Archimedes boasted that if he had a fulcrum and a long enough lever he could move the earth," says the Geographic Society. "Similarly the mapmaker or the modelmaker might say: 'Give me a scale small enough and I can model our universe.'"

What is a Universe? There must be a clear understanding of terms, however. It is not the universe that can be built to scale. That, outside the Einstein school, is generally considered infinite in extent; and no matter how tiny the scale, the infinite, of course, could never be brought within the limits of a model. But there is a definite thing that may be called our universe, whose limits astronomers have estimated—the space marked out by the distance to the outermost star of the milk way.

"Imagine this star to be a piece of chalk tied to a string, the other end pinned to the earth. Swing it about in every direction with the string taut, and you will mark out a great sphere of space believed to be 550,000 light years across. A light year is the distance that light travels in a year, moving at the rate of about 186,000 miles a second. It is the yardstick of modern astronomy. A light year is in round numbers six trillion miles and the distance across our universe is taken as 550,000 times six trillion miles.

"It must be understood that we are not assumed to be at the center of an actual globular universe. We have merely carved from space around us an imaginary arbitrary globe in such a way that it includes practically all the stars that we can see, and have called it 'our universe.'"

A Period and a Solar System. The dimensions of this universe—"our star system" is another name for it—when given in miles or light years mean little to most minds. Let us adopt the mapmaker's plan and scale it down. Most maps have in one corner a legend such as "scale: 1 inch equals 500 miles." Let us try for our universe model the scale, "the period at the end of this sentence equals one solar system."

"On the motion picture screen many of us have seen represented a large disc which is made to decrease rapidly until it becomes a mere dot. Imagine the great solar system shrinking in this way before our eyes until what was the path of Neptune, nearly three billion miles from the sun, is now the outer edge of the period.

Scale Too Large. "If the globular 'universe' that contains our star system shrank at the same time and in the same proportion, how big would it be when the solar system was the size of the little black punctuation dot? It would be represented by a globe nearly 12,000 miles across, a ball with a diameter half as large as the earth! So our scale is far too great. If we are to have a workable model, the scale must be further reduced.

"At the lower end of the world of matter the atom is built like a tiny solar system. Its size is known to science; and with its infinitesimal central 'sun' and its planetary electrons, it makes a most appropriate measure for the circling planets and stars. The helium atom may be selected because it is the simplest atom that swims free, going about its business with no entangling alliances, like the solar system itself. The new scale, then, is to be, 'one helium atom equals one solar system.'"

Just how the helium atom mimics the solar system is worth noting. After many years of painstaking research, physicists are of the opinion that every atom consists of an infinitesimally small center, called a "proton," which stands in the place of the sun; and one or more tiny bits called "electrons" that revolve around the center more or less as the planets revolve around the sun. At the very bottom of the ladder is an atom consisting of a proton with one "planetary" electron.

This is hydrogen, the simplest of the atoms. Hydrogen is not taken as our universe model scale because its atoms insist on "hooking themselves up" two by two, and also because only one planetary electron is involved. Helium, with two electrons flying around its proton, takes on a closer likeness to the solar system, and in addition each atom remains a thing apart as our planetary family does.

Atom's "Universe" 74 Feet Across. "The diameter of a helium atom is something like one-fortieth-millionth of an inch; and if the solar system were scaled down to that size, our universe would be represented by a globe 74 feet through. In a 74-foot model of our universe the earth would be 'represented' by a 'dot'—if such a thing can be imagined—only one seven-hundredth-thousandth as great an atom.

"The earth 'dot' would be so small that in order to see it we would have to use a microscope more than a million times stronger than the most powerful one yet built. The 'inhabitants' of such a tiny earth if they had reached heights of achievement comparable to ours, could reach out into space with their best telescopes just 74 feet. Everything more than 74 feet away would be unknown to them just as the vast reaches of space beyond the Milky Way are unknown to us."

COAL DUST LODGED IN MINER'S LUNGS

Tells how his cough was conquered and health restored.

In November, 1916, I was working in a coal mine and the doctors said the coal dust had settled in my lungs. I couldn't lie down on my right side, coughed so I couldn't sleep and had constant pain in my right lung and under my shoulder blades. I couldn't so hard the blood would spurt out of my nose. Finally the doctors had me change climate and live outdoors, but didn't improve.

Then I came home and started on Milks Emulsion. Thank God I did, as it did me a lot of good right from the start, loosening up the coal dust in my right lung. In a few weeks my lungs were free. I could sleep like a baby, had an excellent appetite and my cough left entirely. I gained back 30 pounds in weight and went back to work in the mine completely restored to health.

J. G. H. Bunn, 6th Ave. and No. 13th St., Terre Haute, Ind.

Thousands of victims of dust-filled air develop the same trouble that Mr. Bunn had. Milks Emulsion costs nothing to try, so why not try it? Milks Emulsion restores healthy, natural blood action; it is a truly effective medicine, doing away with all need of pills and physics. It promotes appetite and quickly purges the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food, and thus build flesh and strength. Milks Emulsion is strongly recommended to those whose sickness has weakened it; it is a powerful aid in resisting and repelling the effects of wasting disease. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved. This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream. We're sorry for weak, sickly children. No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milks Emulsion under this guarantee—Take six bottles home with you, use it according to directions and if not satisfied with the results, your money will be promptly refunded. Price 60c and $1.20 per bottle. The Milks Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Sold by druggists everywhere.

TWO ESCAPED MURDER CONVICTS SLAIN BY POSSE

Little Rock Policemen Accompanied by Newspaper Men Shoot Two of Three Men Who Escaped Friday

THIRD TAKEN EARLIER WITHOUT RESISTANCE

Fight in Woods Near Redfield, Ark., Where Fugitives Had Hidden in Foliage of Fallen Tree.

By The Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 6.—Emory Connell and Eulus Sullivan, convicted murderers, who escaped from death cells in the Arkansas penitentiary here Friday were shot to death yesterday in the woods near Redfield, Ark., a village 23 miles southeast of here, in a fight with a party of a dozen Little Rock policemen, accompanied by newspaper reporters. Fred Snodgrass, a newspaper man, was wounded slightly in the foot during the shooting.

Connell and Sullivan, lying hidden in the foliage of a fallen tree top, opened fire at close range after members of the posse had passed their hiding place without noticing them. The possemen retreated, taking refuge behind trees and wood racks and poured bullets into the tree top. When the convicts no longer returned fire, each was found to have been hit several times.

The fight in the woods followed the capture of Joe Sullivan, who escaped with the two who were killed. Sullivan, suffering intensely from cold, privation and loss of blood, because of a bullet wound in an arm, was captured without resistance in the village of Redfield and was brought here. He said his companions still were in the woods and the man hunt began with scores of officers and citizens participating.

Gov. T. C. McRae authorized members of the National Guard to volunteer for service under Sheriff Homer Adkins and many members joined the posse.

Joe Sullivan is in a serious condition in a local hospital. He said he received the wound in the arm Sunday when Connell, walking behind him in the woods, shot him by accident.

The three men escaped from the death cells after overpowering the warden, a guard and two visitors. After locking the guard and the visitors in cells, they forced the warden to accompany them to the prison yard, where they picked up two revolvers and a rifle and a supply of ammunition that had been dropped inside the wall by an accomplice. The warden then was forced to drive the trio through the prison gates in his automobile.

WINS SUIT TO REGAIN RING PLEDGED EIGHT YEARS AGO

Man's Delay of Four Years Before Offering to Redeem It Is Not Bar to Recovery.

A decision by Judge Allen of the St. Louis Court of Appeals today directs Dr. J. C. Heinrichs, an oculist, to return a diamond ring to George W. Neal. In a suit to recover the ring Neal stated that he pledged it with Dr. Heinrichs eight years ago as security for a loan of $80, and on Nov. 14, 1919, when he tendered the balance due, the doctor refused to accept it.

The ring originally was the property of plaintiff's mother, who is dead, and he placed a value of $450 on the stone.

Dr. Heinrichs contended that Neal was not entitled to the ring because he failed to redeem it within the three months agreed on. The court held that the defendant could not legally dispose of the pledged article before giving notice of a sale at foreclosure, which he did not do.

WIFE FILES SECOND DIVORCE SUIT AGAINST PLAYWRIGHT

Will M. Hough Charged With Infidelity—Must Pay $250 a Month Alimony.

By The Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Mrs. Florence Lord Hough, daughter of Daniel M. Lord of Chicago, yesterday, in Supreme Court, began suit for a second divorce from her playwright husband, Will M. Hough, charging infidelity.

The Houghs were married 12 years ago and 19 months later Mrs. Hough divorced her husband only to remarry 31 months after the decree had been granted.

The complaint in the first suit charged that Hough often sent his wife to other locations and climates where he might have free rein with other women, during her absence.

Mrs. Hough declared that four years after their second marriage, in 1915, her husband resumed his old habits. She alleged misconduct at Delaware Water Gap, Amityville, N. Y., and Chicago. Justice Guy awarded her $250 a month temporary alimony.

WADDOO TO TELL
SENATORS OF HIS WORK FOR DOHENY

Daniels Also Expected to Testify in Oil Lease Inquiry and Creel May Be Called.

BOOKS OF 'MEXICAN'
FIRMS CALLED FOR

Principals in Two Associations Subpoenaed; Injunctions May Be Used in Lease Recovery Action.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
28-29 West Building.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The oil scandal is still spreading. Resolved to run to the ground rumors surging up on every side, Senator

Walsh, Democrat, Montana, has issued subpoenas for the appearance

before the Senate Public Lands Committee of the principals in and the books of the Association of Petroleum Producers of Mexico and the National Association for the Protection of American Rights in Mexico. John T. King, a prominent Republican of Connecticut, has been summoned in relation to the Association for the Protection of American Rights. Guy Stevens and Thomas Lee, both of New York, are the others ordered to appear.

Senator Walsh declared that evidence had been placed in his hands which demanded a thorough inquiry into the affairs of these organizations, especially in relation to sums of money spent in Washington. He gave the impression that the reports did not relate to William G. McAdoo's employment as counsel by Edward L. Doheny in connection with Mexican oil interests. McAdoo is to be heard, however, on Friday, according to present plans, and is to be exhaustively questioned about his relations as attorney for Doheny and such other oil men, if any, as may have engaged him after he resigned as Secretary of the Treasury.

McAdoo Takes Issue With Doheny.

McAdoo, who is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the presidency, has taken issue with E.
L. Doheny that he has received

"all told," $250,000 in fees, fixing the amount at $150,000. He also asserts that his present annual return is only half of the $10,000

Doheny.

The only comment Senator Walsh would make on the summoning of King and others was that, if the reports received by him were substantiated, there would be a far greater sensation than had yet developed.

Senator Walsh, who is in command of the Senate investigation by reason of having produced almost all the evidence so far, said he proposed to turn the searchlight on all brokerage houses through which stock in Harry F. Sinclair's operations, notably the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve lease operated by the Mammoth Oil Co., may have passed.

The theory is that large blocks of the stock found their way ultimately into the hands of individuals prominently identified with the lease to Sinclair, while others, including several Senators, carried on highly profitable market transactions in the Mammoth Oil stock, which advanced under expert speculation until it had gained $100,000, 000 in price according to the exports.

Josephus Daniels May Testify.

Former Secretary of the Navy, Josephus Daniels may testify on Friday, having asked for an opportunity to reply to Doheny's accusations to the effect that Daniels sought to favor the Standard Oil by withholding the naval reserves from Doheny — chiefly Doheny — who would take the Standard Oil by the Standard's contiguous wells.

George Creel will be summoned by the committee, Senator Walsh said, if he does not appear voluntarily at the end of the week to show his version of the $5000 which Doheny alleged was paid him through a third person—in a vain attempt to pave the way at the War Department for leases.

Upon reconvening Thursday the Senate is to pass at once a further authorization for the investigating committee in order to remove Alderson R. Fall's objection that the committee is no longer empowered to examine him. But the committee members do not think this will break his silence. They expect him to appear Friday morning and anticipate that his answers might lead to incriminate him in view of the anticipated presentation of his further refusal to answer questions, the committee will ask the Senate to refer the matter to the District Attorney of the District of Columbia, requesting a warrant for contempt.

FACTORS OF HIS

Lease Recovery Action.Post-Dispatch Bureau, 10-23 Wyatt Building.WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The oil lease inquiry is still spreading. Resolved to go to the ground rumors surrounding the appearance of Senator Doherty, Democrat, Montana, has is-
before the Senate Public Lands Committee of the principals in and
the books of the Association of Petroleum Producers of Mexico and the National Association of American Rights in Mexico. John T. Kling, a prominent Republican of Connecticut, has been summoned in relation to the association for the protection of American rights. Guy Stevens and Thomas Lee, both of New York, are the others ordered to appear.Senator Walsh declared that evidence had been placed in his hands which demanded a thorough inquiry into the affairs of these organizations, especially in relation to sums of money spent in Washington. He gave the impression that the report did not relate to William S. Macdonald's employment as counsel by Edward L. Doherty in connection with Mexican oil interests. Macdonald is to be heard, however, on Friday, according to present plans, and is to be exhaustively questioned about his relations as attorney for Doherty and such other men as may have been connected with him after he resigned as secretary of the Treasury.Macdonald takes issue with Doherty.
Macdonald, who is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the presidency, has taken issue with E.
Doherty that he has received "only" $250,000 in fees, having claimed the amount at $150,000. He also claims that his present annual retainer is only half of the $50,000 given to the committee by Doherty.The only comment Senator Walsh would make on the summoning of Kling and others was that, if the evidence so far said, he proposed to turn the searchlight on all brokers and houses throughout the country, notably the Teapot dome oil reserve lease case, which was handled by the Mammoth Oil Co., and have passed.The theory is that large blocks of stock found their way into the hands of individuals, who, promi-nently identified with the lease to Sinclair, while others, including several Senators, carried the Mammoth Oil stock, which advanced under expert floor trading until it had gained $100,000 in price, according to the exposed.Joseph Daniels May Testify.
Former Secretary of the Navy, Joseph Daniels, is expected to testify on Friday, having asked for an opportunity to reply to Doherty's accusations to the effect that Daniels had been asked to favor the Standard Oil company in the matter of the oil lease to Sinclair.George Creel will be summoned before the committee, Senator Walsh said, if he does not appear voluntarily at the end of the week to give his version of the $5000 which was alleged was paid him—though a third person in vain attempted to pave the way at the war department for leases.Upon reconvening Thursday the committee is to pass at once a further resolution for the investigating committee in order to remove Albin P. Hall's objection that the committee is no longer empowered to hear him. But the committee members do not think this will be the end of the matter. They expect to appear Friday morning and to answer the matter to the committee's further refusal to answer the committee will ask
the Senate to refer the matter to
the District Attorney of the District of Columbia, requesting a charge for contempt.The Senate will be asked on Friday to pass a resolution authorizing the committee to subpoena the principals in and the books of the Association of Pe-
National Association of American Rights in Mexico.

Lenine's Successor as Ruler of Russia

ALEXIS IVANOVITCH RYKOFF.

Rykoff was one of Lenine's strongest supporters and assisted him as First Vice President of the Council of the People's Commissars, and had taken a prominent part in the soviet regime since it came into power. He first came into prominence as a member of the All-Russian Central Executive Committee and has held the posts of Com-missar of Agriculture, President of the Supreme Economic Council and Vice President of the Council of Labor and Defense. He is known as a "right wing" Communist.

His new title is Chairman of the Council of Commissars.

Thursday to pass first of all a further resolution of Walsh's denouncing Fall's action in the Elk Hills case, when the former Secretary of the Interior, at an exparte hearing, listened to an argument by Oscar Sutro, counsel for the Standard Oil of California, and upheld the Standard's right to the Elk Hills field, out of which the Standard already had taken $10,000,000 worth of oil.It was Attorney-General Daugherty's still unexplained action directing his assistants to make no objection to Sutro's plea to which Senator Walsh referred recently in saying Daugherty was not free from suspicion. Daugherty is not to be called by the committee, however, Walsh said. The Montana Senator holds that, if Daugherty cares to let the accusation already developed by the testimony rest, it is his concern. Daugherty has not asked to appear before the committee to explain. The Walsh resolution would lead to ousting of the Standard from the rich concession. The Government already has been sustained by the Supreme Court in an almost identical case resulting in the Southern Pa-

Life of the Country.Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.LONDON, Feb. 5.—Premier Macdonald received newspaper men at the Foreign Office yesterday and discussed his policies guardedly.
Referring to recognition of Russia, he said:"It is absolute. There is no quibble about it. We have given Russia our formal recognition, but the fact of diplomatic recognition does not prevent countries from having disputes."The League of Nations, he added, cannot be made a force in international relations before Germany and Russia are given membership.
"There will be difficulty in the way of Russia," Macdonald declared, "but Germany's inclusion must be insisted upon. She must receive full and complete recognition upon equal terms as a member of the league."Thinks France Will Consent.
Asked if France would object to this, the Premier replied:"No, I believe Germany will be accepted as a league member, and no insurmountable difficulty will be encountered."The British representative in the league must have experience in foreign affairs in general, not only of matters brought directly to the league's notice, and be conversant with what is going on in the foreign office.Discussing Anglo-French relations, Macdonald said that the negative attitude of the British Government had been a result of misunderstanding."All that has gone," he declared, "Britain no longer will be content to sit by and watch events. The result of the new attitude seems to be to succeed beyond expectations. The French have definitely withdrawn their support from the separatist movement in the Palat-inate and the Rhineland High Commissioners are ordered to re-register decisions of the separatist movement."Dealing with home affairs, Macdonald said that the results of a labor government that preceded his taking office."Securities were to go down," he reminded the correspondents, "cap-the world was to come to an end.

A day or two ago an important financial authority in the city told me confidence in the Government was being restored, and success in solving the world's problems was being looked forward with relief

GENEVA, Feb. 6.—Norman H.
Davis, former American Undersecretary of State, who will depart with the League of Nations neutral commission today for Memel, said in presiding over the first meeting of the commission yesterday that a settlement of the Memel controversy was impossible unless there were an active will for peace among those concerned.The first meeting at Memel will be held Monday, but the situation between Poland and Lithuania over the Vilna affair has been so much like a state of war that great difficulty is expected in finding a solution.PROPOSED CHANGES IN MISSOURI CONSTITUTIONAN EXPLANATION OF SUGGESTED AMENDMENTS ON INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM.Following is the second in a series of explanatory articles on the proposed amendments to the Missouri Constitution, to be voted on Feb. 26. These articles will appear from day to day in the Post-Dispatch.By VINCENT M. CARROLL,
The Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 6.

FRAMEWORK of the initiative and referendum as they have existed in the Missouri Constitution since 1908 would not be extensively altered by the proposed changes recommended by the Constitutional Convention. In Amendment No. 2 to Article IV an effort is made to render invocation of both initiative and referendum a little more difficult, to the end that they might serve in a crisis, yet not be responsive to every whim or caprice of politics or selfish interest, as they are alleged to have been used at times in the past.When Missouri became a State all legislative power, subject to certain express constitutional restrictions, was vested in the Legislature. In 1908 the voters, by amending the State Constitution, took back to themselves joint power with the Legislature to make and repeal laws by means of petitions and elections, in this way.To make a law they had to draft a measure and induce five per cent of the voters in two-thirds of the congressional districts to sign petitions asking for its submission. These were filed with the Secretary of State, who proceeded to submit the proposed statute at the general election next following. If at that time it obtained a majority of the votes cast for or against, it became a law. Popular effort to amend the Constitution could be made in exactly the same way.Or, if the Legislature had passed a measure to which people objected, they could suspend its operation and obtain a chance to vote upon it at the polls by filing petitions bearing signatures of five per cent of the voters in two-thirds of the congressional districts.

Changes in Machinery Proposed.

Ballots placing such bills before the people read:
"Be it enacted by the People of Missouri," and so on. This placed the burden of the fight for adoption of the measure upon its proponents, rather than upon those interested in its defeat. And such is the machinery of the initiative and referendum in Missouri today.It is comparatively easy either to initiate or refer a measure. For although 1,330,822 persons voted for the various candidates for the government of Missouri in November, 1922, the signatures of 65,000 voters could suspend operation of a measure enacted by the Legislature, or put one upon the ballot by initiative. One result has been that when advocates of a bone-dry Missouri obtained passage by the Legislature of a local option statute, prior to nation-wide prohibition, the wets would block the measure with a referendum movement.
Frequently damage-suit attorneys in St. Louis and Kansas City have defeated workmen's compensation measures adopted by the Legislature by referring them and trusting to the "Vote No" policy of many rural voters to finish the job, never yet having been disappointed.After the attorneys and their allies had circulated and filed their petitions they could sit back and laugh. For it was not a question of whether the people would veto the legislative act, but whether they would re-enact it. Workmen's compensation is a very technical subject, not readilyunderstood by the lay mind, and the problem of making a state-wide campaign of education so that the farmers and residents of smaller towns could be induced to cast an understanding vote upon the issue, involved expenditure of more money than compensation advocates ever had. And so such measures always died in just that way.The climax in such use of the referendum came in 1921, when the Democratic State Committee blocked the Republican State administration's attempt to consolidate functions of several branches of the executive department of the State government.This ostensibly was an ambitious effort by Gov.
Hyde and the Republican legislators to improve upon the conditions of State government, which have been severely criticised for many years. Thirteen bills were referred and all beaten.When the convention came to consideration of the initiative and referendum, one group wanted to abolish both entirely as offshoots of pure democracy, with no place in representative government, and as a source of more trouble than good.Another group desired to retain the machinery but retire both initiative and referendum from active service, render them extremely difficult to use and relegate them to inactivity as a "club behind the door," to be brought forth only at times of great emergency. Other delegates opposed any change whatever in the requirements.

The Convention's Recommendation.

Recommendation of the convention represents a compromise between these various viewpoints.It would require eight per cent of the voters in two-thirds of the congressional districts (11 districts being required as a practical matter) to invoke the initiative, instead of five per cent as at present; and where the proposed measure would amend the Constitution, it would require 12 per cent instead of five. Percentage required under the referendum would be increased from five to 10.
In the past the number of voters in a district has been computed on a basis of the vote for Supreme Judgeships. In future it would be based upon the vote for the governorship. This will be understood when it is recalled that the last vote on the Supreme Judgeships in this State aggregated 965, 915, while the last vote on the governorship totaled 1,330,822.It is sought to change the "Be it enacted by the People of the State of Missouri" with which legislative enactments submitted by referendum are now introduced to the voters, to: "Shall the act of the General Assembly be rejected?"Effect of this switch is apparent, for it would place the burden of a fight for rejection of workmen's compensation, for instance, upon those seeking to block it. Unless a majority of the voters affirmatively opposed such a measure, it would become a law.Two provisions included in the revision which are not found in the present Constitution set out the manner in which initiative and referendum petitions shall be signed, require a petitioner to be a registered voter in communities where there is registration, and enable the repeal by the Legislature of statutes enacted by initiative.The State Federation of Labor, which has perhaps suffered more defeats than any other organized minority in the State, through invocation of the referendum by opponents of workmen's compensation, is resisting the effort to make use of the referendum difficult. So far as known, there is no other organized opposition to these changes.BOOK WINNER IN GLEE CLUB WITH WILSONCharles H. Levermore Tells of His Association With Late President at Johns Hopkins.By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—They met in a historic seminary at Johns Hopkins University four decades ago—a tall youth from Virginia, with sideburns, and a Yankee with a moustache, from Connecticut, almost as tall. Presently they discovered the Virginian had an excellent tenor voice and they organized a glee club. So they worked and sang and went out into the world at last, one of them to fame and the other to comparative obscurity.They might have met again yesterday on a new equality, for fame, delaying all these years, beckoned Dr. Charles H. Levermore. But the Virginian lost the pleasure of congratulating his old friend and classmate on winning the Bok peace prize. Woodrow Wilson died the day before Dr. Levermore was announced as the winner.In his cluttered little office on the twelfth floor at 70 Fifth avenue yesterday Dr. Levermore mused upon his friendship with the war President.Hopkins. Wilson was a graduate of Princeton and Dr. Levermore of Yale, and they were working for their doctor's degrees. They studied the same subjects, history, economics, political science. Soon they arranged to eat at the same boarding house.

Famous Men in Glee Club.

"I had sung second bass in the Yale Glee Club and Wilson had sung second tenor at Princeton," said Dr. Levermore. "We decided to organize a glee club at Johns Hopkins, and it is still in existence. Albert Shaw, editor of the American Review of Reviews, was in it. So was Thomas Dixon, the novelist, and E. R. Gould, who was city chamberlain of New York some years ago, and Frederick M.
Warren, professor of romance languages at Yale, and David T. Gar, the geologist and chemist.""What amusements did we have?"
Well, now and then we went to the theater, or out into the country on walks. But Wilson was engaged then to Ellen Louise Axson, who was studying art at Adelphi College, and whenever he wasn't working or singing he would go up to see her. I remember he used to write his love letters in shorthand to her, which was a precation against anybody else reading them."Wilson was a most lovable young man, with a lot of good stories to tell, a bubbling humor.
But even then nobody would have thought him anything but a most serious and rather cold youth, on casual meeting. He didn't wear his heart on his sleeve. You had to know him in order to see these qualities.""No, in those days we never had any idea of devoting our lives to work for peace. I don't remember we ever talked about it then. It was in 1922 that Mr. Wilson and Dr. Levermore met at Johnswent into politics that I went definitely into peace work.

Kept Up Correspondence.

"We have kept in touch with each other all these years. Once, I remember, I wanted an instructor in English when I was president of Adelphi College, and I wrote to Wilson to suggest somebody. Stockton Axson, his brother-in-law, took the place. During the war and after we corresponded on several occasions.""I wrote him in regard to the situation of Finland during the Kerensky regime, asking why he couldn't recognize Finland, and he wrote back his reasons why he thought we could not.""Would he have approved of my peace plan? No, hardly. It is a compromise plan, you see, and Wilson would not compromise. If he had compromised at the beginning I think we would now be in the league."Five Persons Knew Who Won Peace Prize.By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Five persons kept the secret of the identity of the Bok peace prize winner, and four of them were women. The man was Dr. Charles H. Lever-more, himself.Dr. Levermore said today that on Dec. 25 Miss Esther Everett Lap, secretary of the American Peace Award, informed him of his success in the $100,000 contest.
One of Miss Lap's office associates also knew he had won, he said.
Then he told his wife, and his stenographer. The latter had typed the plan, anyway, he explained, and would have recognized it in the newspapers. He pledged her to secrecy."They have done the same thing I did," Dr. Levermore said with a laugh. "That is, tell a number of whoppers."CANADA ACCEPTS

Commission's Proposals
Regarding St. Lawrence.U. S. HAD HOPED FOR EARLY TREATYHughes Sought Agreement Covering Project Without
"Desire to Give Further Consideration."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The Canadian Government, in a note transmitted to the State Department through the British ambassador, has declared its readiness to act without delay on certain proposals made by the International Joint Commission for Improvements in the St. Lawrence River, between Montreal and Lake Ontario, to make possible deep-water navigation into the Great Lakes.The Ottawa Government asserts that it desires to give further consideration to some of the suggestions made by Secretary Hughes to Sir Auckland Geddes, British Ambassador, in a note transmitted in May, 1922, but is prepared now to appoint additional engineers to enlarge the joint engineering board and undertake the preparation of a final report covering "the engineering features of the whole project, including its cost."In his note to the British Ambassador, Secretary Hughes suggested either the immediate conclusion of a treaty covering the St.
Lawrence development or the constitution of a joint commission of experts to make studies and investigation of the project and to frame a treaty draft.In connection with the suggestion for an expert commission, the Canadian Government says it is ready to nominate one or more technical officers to discuss with similar United States officers the form which the instructions to the enlarged joint engineering board should take, and the time within which it should report. It also asks for the views of the American Government as to the number of additional engineers the two countries should appoint to the proposed board.The communication is being given careful consideration by several executive departments, including those of Commerce and Interior, and as soon as they have concluded their individual studies, reports will be made to the State Department for use by it in answering the communication. It is indicated in some official quarters, however, that this Government had hoped Canada might have found it possible to agree to the suggestion of Secretary Hughes for the negotiations of a treaty covering the project without a "desire to give further consideration" to that point.

Recommended Expert Commission.

The report of the International Joint Commission recommended in part that the expert commission to be created should consider "whether construction of locks and dams in the river (St. Lawrence) or by side canals with the necessary locks or by combination of the two" would provide the most beneficial use of the waters of the St. Lawrence. Methods of control for the waterway, effect upon lake levels and drainage from adjacent rivers and other questions, including power development, were set apart for consideration of the experts.After reviewing the circumstances leading up to the present exchange of notes, Henry G. Chilton, chargé d'affaires of the British ambassy, who signed the communication in behalf of the British authorities, said in reference to the note from Secretary Hughes:
"While the Government of Canada desires to give further consideration to the suggestion put forward in your note of May 17, 1922, they are of opinion that the proposal made by the International Joint Commission should be acted upon without further delay."

COMPLAINS NO NEGRO IS ON JUDGESHIP LIST

Head of Negro Bar Association

Another protest against the Bar Association referendum to select three St. Louis Republican lawyers, one of whom Gov. Hyde has promised to appoint as successor to Circuit Judge Charles B. Davis, was made today by the head of the Negro Bar Association. Daniel W. Bowles, negro lawyer, was submitted to Bar Association officers, but did not appear on the ballot in the referendum, which, as yesterday, contains 21 names. The name of Daniel W. Bowles was submitted to the proper authorities two hours before the time for submitting such names expired. Bowles said last night, "In today's papers, we find that the name of Mr. Bowles has been omitted. Upon investigation, however, we found that it was very likely a matter of inadvertence rather than willful omission." Bowles also complained that only members of the Bar Association were permitted to vote in the referendum. He said there were 4000 lawyers in St. Louis, of whom 1000 belonged to the Bar Association. Similar objection to the referendum was made yesterday by Carl M. Dubinsky, a lawyer, not a member of the association. The referendum closes at 4 p. m. tomorrow.

WOMAN CANDIDATE SLAIN, 3 WOUNDED IN REVOLVER FIGHT

By the Associated Press.
NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 6.—Mrs. Roland Clark, candidate for the mayoralty of Palmetto, La., in a recent primary, was killed; Huey P. Long, of the opposing faction, was fatally wounded, and Mrs. Clark's son and daughter were wounded in a revolver fight today on the streets of Palmetto. A report of the shooting which reached here from Opelousas, La., near Palmetto, said that Mrs. Clark, accompanied by her daughter, met Mr. Long on the street and accused him of having brought a relative from Texas to vote for her opponent. Before this vote was cast, it was charged, the balloting had resulted in a tie. After a brief exchange of words, firing began and Mr. Long fell immediately.

POLICEMAN, SHIFTED EIGHT TIMES, FIRED

Regret if He Hurt Any Board Member by Arresting Friends Is Vain.

Patrolman Modesto Gentilini had "talked out of turn." He had said things which might have been construed as derogatory of the Board of Police Commissioners. It is not for a patrolman to attempt to explain to newspaper reporters why he has been transferred from one police district to another eight times in three years.

So, yesterday, Modesto Gentilini came before the board for trial, charged with giving information to the newspapers and with making a false report in denial of his act.

Brockman Disqualifies Self. President Brockman got up as Patrolman Gentilini marched in and said, "I shall disqualify myself in this case and retire." This he did.

The Police Department summoned only one witness, a newspaper reporter, who admitted he had gone to Patrolman Gentilini's house the morning of Jan. 18 to ask him why he had been shifted from one district to another so often. He had found Gentilini in bed, suffering from a toothache.

"Gentilini told me he wasn't certain just why he had been transferred," the witness testified, "but he thought it might be because he had arrested the wrong persons. These persons might have complained to Mr. Brockman or someone else, and that was all Patrolman Gentilini could surmise."

The board members stiffened in their chairs and rifled papers ominously.

All Because of Toothache. Patrolman Gentilini broke in with protests. He had been ill with toothache and was in a nervous condition. If he had told reporters anything out of the way, that was because of the toothache. Didn't he know that it was wrong to say anything against the board? He knew enough to know that if a man was working for anybody and then said things about them, he'd be sure to lose his job. Of course, he knew that. If he had been in his right mind he would not have said what he did. But, even so, he had not said all that the newspaper quoted him as saying.

"Did you say that no policeman could do honest police duty under Mr. Brockman?" Commissioner Moore asked.

"No, sir."

"You make a general denial of all charges?"

Patrolman Gentilini hesitated, then made general denial of all charges. He had tried to do his duty, he said. He had arrested anybody he thought was doing wrong. He had not understood that a patrolman must not arrest certain people. If he had hurt the feelings of the board by arresting any of their friends, he was indeed sorry. He had not understood.

The board filed out to where President Brockman was waiting. It deliberated for almost an hour. Then Commissioner Young came in and said, "The board finds you guilty, officer, and has ordered your dismissal from the force."

To which Patrolman Gentilini gulped and replied, "Yes, sir."

Traffic Officer, Arrested in Cab With Mayor's Son, Dismissed. Before the trial of Patrolman Gentilini, the board heard the case of Traffic Officer Samuel Byrnes on charges of having become intoxicated and abandoning his post at Seventh street and Washington avenue. A Sergeant found him in a taxicab with Clarence Kiel, son of the Mayor.

Byrnes marched in dressed in civilian clothes and stood before the board. The trial was most perfunctory. Although he pleaded not guilty the evidence was all against him. "You are dismissed from the department," said President Brockman.

Mother of 23 Children Dies at 82. Special to the Post-Dispatch.
KANSAS CITY, Kan., Feb. 6.—Mrs. Emily Matney, 82 years old, mother of 23 children, died here last night at the home of her son, George Matney. She was the widow of David B. Matney and a daughter of John Puckett, an early Westport settler. Mrs. Matney witnessed the stirring times here in the Civil War. Once her family was burned out by the Shawnee Indians. She had lived on a farm one and one-half miles west of Argonne since marriage in 1860 until a few weeks ago. Mrs. Matney leaves 21 children and 23 great-grandchildren.

Wade Fine Was $25. Festus J. Wade Jr. of 4232 Lindell boulevard, clerk at the Mercantile Trust Co., was fined $25 and costs yesterday by Police Judge Homer for speeding. Wade admitted driving at 40 miles an hour as charged by a motor cycle policeman. It was erroneously stated in yesterday's Post-Dispatch that Wade had been let off with a $5 fine, plus $3 costs.

GANDHI'S RELEASE CAUSES REJOICING THROUGHOUT INDIA

All Sections of Press Hail Liberation of Nationalist Leader From Prison as Policy of Conciliation.

HOME RULE DEMAND BEFORE CONFERENCE

Swarajists Will Give the Government a Month in Which to Answer Plan—
New Reprisals Proposed.

By the Associated Press.
BOMBAY, Feb. 6.—The liberation of Mahatma Mohandas Gandhi, leader of the Indian Nationalists, from prison has been received with rejoicing throughout India. The unconditional turning loose of the non-co-operationist leader is being acclaimed by all sections of the press as indicating a policy of conciliation on the part of the Government.

Gandhi has decided to remain in the hospital, where he is a patient for at least a fortnight.

By the Associated Press.
DELHI, British India, Feb. 6.—The demand of the Swarajists for Home Rule, for a round-table conference to discuss measures for the establishment of a responsible government will come up for discussion Friday. It is intended to give the Government a month in which to agree to the party's proposal, and if the Government refuses to acquiesce, it is said, the Swarajists intend to adopt a policy of refusal to sell supplies to the Government and general obstruction.

Freedom of Health, Is View Expressed at London.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Feb. 6.—Gandhi, the Indian Nationalist leader, who yesterday was released from a six years' prison term by order of the Bombay Government, owes his freedom to the state of his health, since an operation for appendicitis rather than to any fundamental change in the British Government's policy toward the Swarajist, or home rule, movement, according to an observer close to the Indian Department.

This view is generally accepted as the immediate cause of the home rule leader's release. However, other observers of Indian affairs, while agreeing that Gandhi's freedom does not necessarily mean any departure from the general British policy, are of opinion that it is a concession to the agitators, with a view to maintaining law and order during the present critical period when the Swarajists may possibly obtain control of the legislative assembly at Delhi.

The question now agitating the minds of British officials regarding Gandhi is not his release or the cause behind it, but what the home rule leader will do with his new freedom. It is admitted that he can lead the Indian discontented wherever he chooses. Likewise, it is admitted that his followers, ready and waiting to acclaim him, are as numerous and as intent on the satisfaction of their grievances as they were before Gandhi went to prison.

May Await New Issue.
It is believed here that Gandhi's health will keep him in retirement for several months. Afterward he may take issue with the other home rule leaders, who have headed the movement during his imprisonment, because they departed from his strict interpretation of non-co-operation and fought and won many seats in provincial councils and the Legislative Assembly. Gandhi's policy was to boycott the Legislature as rigidly as the Sinn Feiners shunned the British House of Commons. He may await a new issue before reassuming the leadership of his movement and then guide it back to the channels which he originally outlined.

Only two pronouncements regarding India have been made by Labor ministers and neither of them was official. Both were expressions to Indian journalists. One from Ramsay MacDonald before he took office insisted that the home rulers should adhere to the strictest constitutional methods, while the other expression came from J. H. Thomas, Secretary for Colonies, a few days ago, who, when questioned regarding the Government's policy regarding the East India problem in British India, said his mind was not definitely settled on the issue, but that his attitude was practically the same as that of the late Government and that the interests of the native Africans must be kept paramount.

MELLON TAX BILL WILL BE REPORTED TO HOUSE MONDAY

Republicans, After Approving 25 Per Cent on Current Taxes, Will Ratify Measure Tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Republican members of the House Ways and Means Committee determined to report out the Mellon tax reduction bill with its 25 per cent maximum surtax provision, today whipped the bill into final shape. Yesterday, after adopting a detailed scheme for a 25 per cent reduction of all personal income taxes payable this year, the Republican majority wrote into the bill provisions for the elimination of so-called nuisance or excise taxes on jewelry and will formally ratify the measure at a meeting of the whole committee tomorrow.

After that the bill will be reported to the House Monday, Chairman Green said today. However, consideration of the bill probably will not commence until the week following, owing to the necessity of getting the appropriation bills out of the way.

Another development of the tax situation was publication in the Congressional Record of a speech by Representative Darrow (Rep.), Pennsylvania, supporting the Mellon plan. Its significance was that, although Darrow voted for the bonus bill last year, his statement today shows opposition to passage of a bonus measure now.

Details governing the 25 per cent reduction of current income taxes are elaborate and cover every possible contingency. In general, if a cash payment of the entire year's tax is made at the time of the first return, the proposed 25 per cent reduction will be refunded whenever the reduction measure is passed. If the income tax is paid on the installment plan, the refund will be prorated on the different payments.

DANISH ROYAL FAMILY IN DEBT TO DEFUNCT BANK

Socialists Plan to Dun Them—Finance of Miss Eleanor Green Owes $14,000.

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 6.—During debate in the Danish Rigsdagen Monday it was revealed that Prince Viggo, fiancé of Miss Eleanor Green, owes the equivalent of $14,000 to the Landsman Bank of Copenhagen. The Danish Socialist party wants someone to pay up.

The Landsman Bank, one of the biggest in Denmark, collapsed last fall. The explanation was that the directors had been speculating extensively since 1917 for members of the royal family, their relatives and Government Ministers. Most of the speculations were executed without the notables, who were to share the profits, putting up any actual margin. In 1923 these speculations were unlucky and the bank went under.

An investigating committee of the Rigsdagen re-established the bank under new directors and tried to make the royal and other speculators pay their losses.

By ARTHUR E. MANN,
A European Correspondent of the World.

Copyright, 1924, by the Press and Publishing Co., New York World and the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—From an authoritative American source I have received a summary of the preliminary conclusions of the American and British members of the committee of experts which has been investigating the question of German capital and credits abroad.

Former Chancellor of the Exchequer McKenna is the chairman and British member. Henry M. Robinson is the American. The French delegates, it is said, have not yet expressed formal disagreement with the opinion of their colleagues on this subject.

First, the American and British members of the committee believe there is not as much German capital abroad today as there was before the war.

Second, it is impossible to learn the amount of this capital and foreign credits held abroad because foreign banks will not divulge the amounts and no Government will pass legislation compelling them to do so.

Third, in many cases these German credits abroad are hopelessly bound up with the credits of other nationals with whom the Germans are doing business. It would be impossible to ascertain the German portion without making the business operations of the foreign firms involved—a situation which could not be allowed to arise.

Fourth, the only policy to pursue, therefore, is to try to achieve a general repayment agreement which will encourage the return of German capital which has been sent abroad for no legitimate business reason.

I am informed the American and British experts are now working to convince those who have been favoring partial or total confiscation of German credits abroad of the unsoundness of this view. To that end estimates are being made of the amount of foreign credits which in the opinion of these experts it is necessary for Germany to retain in order to carry on her international trade and place herself in a position to pay reparations.

Feeling as is to try to achieve a general repayment agreement which will encourage the return of German capital which has been sent abroad for no legitimate business reason.

According to the American and British experts have agreed according to my informant. He declared there is apparent acquiescence on the part of the French. There is some feeling among the American delegates that the French are lying low and will continue to do so until after the May elections in France, when the Paris Government's real attitude will be made known. It will depend upon the strength or weakness of the radical elements in the Chamber of Deputies.

LLOYD GEORGE CHARGES WILSON MADE SECRET PACT WHEN BRITON WAS ABSENT

Text of Interview With Former Premier, Who Says France Desires to Publish the Document.

The following interview with former Premier Lloyd George was taken exclusively for the Post-Dispatch and New York World by Harold Spender, British newspaper man, friend of Lloyd George and author of his biography.

By HAROLD SPENDER.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—While David Lloyd George was in London during the Versailles peace conference, fighting his political enemies, President Wilson and Premier Clemenceau were signing a secret compact dealing with allied occupation of the Rhineland, according to the British statesman.

This was revealed during a talk I had with him Sunday at his Surrey home. He told also how the arrangement for occupation was made over his opposition and that the first he learned of the compact was just recently, when the French asked him for permission to publish it.

News of the American war President's death had just been received and the former Premier was explaining his opinions of Mr. Wilson's personality. He said the President was too sensitive to criticism and therefore "surrendered so many of his ideals." Someone of the party asked for an instance and Mr. Lloyd George replied:

"Well, there was the 15 years' military occupation of the Rhine frontier by the allies. I was opposed to it. I seemed to foresee that if the French once occupied the frontier they would not leave it—and my forecast has already been borne out by events."

"Signed a Secret Compact."

But I was called away to London at the critical moment in the negotiation by the famous attack in the House of Commons organized by Lord Northcliffe's telegram.

When I returned I found that Wilson had surrendered to Clemenceau and thus the French gained that right to occupy the Rhine country which was finally included in the treaty.

Very slowly and carefully Mr. Lloyd George went on:

"I have only quite recently discovered that during my absence in London Clemenceau and Wilson signed a secret compact on this question. Yet I have always been attacked by many people in England as the villain of that piece."

Feeling as is to try to achieve a general repayment agreement which will encourage the return of German capital which has been sent abroad for no legitimate business reason.

On all issues involved—the American and British experts have agreed according to my informant. He declared there is apparent acquiescence on the part of the French.

There is some feeling among the American delegates that the French are lying low and will continue to do so until after the May elections in France, when the Paris Government's real attitude will be made known. It will depend upon the strength or weakness of the radical elements in the Chamber of Deputies.

An interesting, significant reference was made to the British debt to America at a private, informal meeting between British and American delegates to the first expert committee, which is inquiring into measures for stabilizing the German currency and balancing the budget.

The incident occurred after a full committee meeting at which a French delegate had referred to the necessity of France obtaining reparations in order to pay her debt to Great Britain. During the conversation which followed this meeting one of the American delegates referred to this remark, whereupon Sir Robert Kindersley, British delegate and a director of the Bank of England, is reported to have said:

"We funded our debt to America because we believed we could pay it irrespective of what we got from our debtors. That was the only sound business attitude to take."

According to the American and British delegates do not expect any concrete plan, produced by the committee, will be immediately or entirely accepted by the allied Governments. But their place of great faith in its propaganda value.

With a view to doing everything possible to get such a report out of the committee, the American delegates have succeeded in postponing repeated French requests that in considering the productivity of Germany's resources

WILSON'S ADVISORS SCOUT THE IDEA OF A SECRET PACT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—LANSING, Gen. Tasker M. Bliss and Bernard M. Baruch expressed astonishment when asked if they had heard of the secret compact which Lloyd George says Woodrow Wilson made in connection with French occupation of the Rhine. Nor had they ever heard of an understanding reached between Wilson and Clemenceau, as suggested by Lloyd George.

None of these three, who would perhaps be in a better position to know of such undertakings if they were arrived at than any others close to Mr. Wilson during the peace conference, has ever heard of the proceedings related by Lloyd George and suggested his version must be the result of some confusion over the prolonged discussions on the subject of the Rhineland. These three members of the American peace delegation frankly scouted the idea Baruch regarded it as preposterous.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Edward M. House, member of the American peace delegation to Paris, and chief adviser to President Wilson, authorized the following statement:

"Since the statement has been made that President Wilson and Clemenceau signed a secret document involving the occupation of the Rhine, let us have the document. When it is published it may be found not to exist altogether. The views of Mr. Lloyd George, but I feel sure the American people will be satisfied with the action, if any, President Wilson took in this matter."

He broke off here with a laugh, but then resumed:

"Yes, I have just received the documents from the Foreign Office. The French now wish to publish the agreement between Wilson and Clemenceau and desire me to agree. It is a little late to ask for my consent. I have never seen the documents before."

As soon as he had said this his mood changed, the shadow passed and he added:

"After all, he was a great man, great in ideas and great in aim. Where he failed was in dealing with men, but now, at any rate, as Stanton said of Abraham Lincoln, he belongs to the ages."

SOLDAN HIGH SCHOOL FLAG NOW FLIES AT HALF MAST

Was Lowered at News of Wilson's Death, Then Raised Because of Lack of Definite Orders.

The flag at Soldan High School now hangs at half mast and telephone inquiries to the school, the Board of Education and newspaper offices, as to why it hung otherwise with Woodrow Wilson dead, have ceased.

The official flag-raiser at Soldan, a janitor, lowered the flag to half mast Monday morning in honor of the former President. Then, recollecting he had no orders from the Building Department for his action, he raised it to full mast. Then the inquiries came.

Principal Powell was powerless to act, as principals have no jurisdiction over flags. Building Commissioner Milligan was away from the office. However, orders were put out later in the day for all school flags to be half-masted for 30 days in honor of Wilson and the late President.

After deputies had reported time and again that they were unable to find Miss Gazzolo, who came here Jan. 28, and accompanied by deputy, went to a hotel across the street from the Gazzolo saloon and Miss Gazzolo. She came downstairs, and while she was waiting at the telephone booth the deputy entered the saloon. Glio identified Miss Gazzolo and the deputy served her with the paper.

JAIL IMPROVEMENTS PLANNED BY CUNLIFF

$100,000 Will Be Asked for Finishing of Upper Floors to Relieve Congestion.

Completion of the fifth and sixth floors of the jail at an estimated cost of $100,000 will be the first step in improving conditions criticized in a report made public yesterday of a survey of the jail by Dr. Hastings H. Hart, director of the Child-Health Department of the Russell Sage Foundation, Director of Public Welfare Cunniff said today.

"Relief of congestion in the jail is the prime requisite at present," the director said. "The president's department of the Board of Public Service is working on plans for completion of the two floors, and we expect to ask an appropriation as soon as those plans are ready."

"We will ask that this item be included in the 1924 budget, because it is a matter of extreme importance. Dr. Hart's report shows the necessity of betterment of conditions as regards congestion. I heartily endorse his recommendations, with one or two minor exceptions, and his other suggestions will be taken up as soon as possible."

78 Sleep on Floor in Week.

As told yesterday, the worst defect pointed out in Dr. Hart's report was that while the jail has cells for only 132 men, the number of prisoners ranges from 200 to nearly 300, of whom an average of 100 are Federal prisoners awaiting trial.

Director Cunniff exhibited a report of prisoners on hand last week, showing that 78 men were forced to sleep on mattresses on the floor during the week. Between 15 and 35 women prisoners are housed in temporary quarters on the fifth floor, which has no cells, and where the rough concrete floor is exposed. The sixth floor has not been constructed. No recreation facilities are provided in the jail.

Plans for Other Remodeling.
It is planned to place cells on the fifth floor and to provide recreation facilities and a chapel on the sixth floor, the director said. A temporary chapel is in use on part of the unfinished fifth floor.

Ultimately, it will be necessary to put cells on the sixth floor, also, and to move the recreation quarters to the roof, as well as erect a separate building for women. Director Cunniff said the jail was erected 14 years ago, and its facilities have not since been increased.

Director Cunniff agrees with Dr. Hart's suggestion that efforts should be made to collect more than the 75 cents a day each now charged for maintenance of Federal prisoners, and that women and juveniles should be isolated, but he says none of the recommendations can be put into effect until the two floors are finished.

SELLS DAUGHTER FOR $30 TO BURY HER MOTHER-IN-LAW

By the Associated Press.

PEKIN, Feb. 6.—A young Chinese woman, poverty-stricken through the long absence of her husband, recently sold her 5-year-old daughter for $30 and used the proceeds to bury her mother-in-law, according to Peking police records.

The husband many months ago joined one of the army divisions in Hupeh. The young wife supported her aged mother-in-law and child by sewing. She was highly respected by her neighbors because of her piety and diligence.

When the aged woman died the daughter-in-law, prompted by devotion born of generations of reverence for the elders of the family, sacrificed her child that her husband's mother might receive proper burial.

The Riffing Automobile Co. garage, at 2230 Gravois avenue, was damaged $25,000 by fire starting from an overheated furnace. Fire destroyed a two-story frame building at 1515 South Seventh street, used by August Schulz as a barn and machine shop, with a loss of $25,000.

His idea, I am told, is that having estimated Germany's capacity on that basis, he hopes to be able to convince the French this capacity will be materially reduced if the Ruhr is treated as a separate economic unit.

Czech Electrician Enlists Support

Experiments.
OBERLEUTENDORF, Czechoslovakia, Jan. 17.—This industrial town of 12,000 persons has voluntarily transformed itself into one great electrical workshop to assist Fritz Havitzek, a local electrician, in his struggle to improve apparatus to transfer electrical power without wires.

Every house, every machine shop, every telegraph pole in town has been placed at the disposal of the young inventor.

Just at the time when Havitzek had nearly perfected the machine upon which he had been at work for years, his funds gave out and he found himself unable to carry on his endeavors. But the Burgomaster and the town deputies quickly came to Havitzek's aid and gave him money with which to continue.

Oberleutendorf manufactures toys, textiles, hats and steel goods. Every worker in town looks upon young Havitzek as a second Edison, and the men of science who have seen his work predict great accomplishments for him.

Traces Inspiration to Its Homely Origin—"Mah Baby Needs a New Pair of Shoes."

DEL RAY, Feb. 7.—Mrs. Wilcox Putnam, the novelist, has emerged at last from the seclusion which followed her unfortunate attempt to transform an old-fashioned and ex-house painter into a literary agent and advisor.

Mrs. Putnam emerged in a simple gown and a small white hat with a bunch of camellias on one side. She came out to talk to the Miami branch of the League of American Pen Women, and, if she had been at the attitude of "her publisher" toward her as a result of her recent experiences, she was completely overpowered by the cordiality of her reception and the attention the women showered upon her.

Mrs. Putnam gave her audience of authors an intimate "close up" of the life of the professional writer. She took something of a "step" to the "other side" of her two marital misadventures by saying she had always been the breadwinner in the family—had been so ever since she was 15.

Putnam indicated that that was, in the language of Gov. Smith of New York, "all bunk." She said her real inspiration came from the "shakiness" which many often experience at the dictation of "Mah baby needs a new pair of shoes."

Homely advice abounded in Mrs. Putnam's talk. She let it be known that she had no patience whatever with the woman who, in the indulgence of her vanity, neglects her domestic duties for the sake of an amateur career.

"She deserves an sort of disaster which may well befall her," said the author, "but it is different with the professional writer, the one who has to write to earn a living."

After the birth of my son, John Francis Putnam, six and one-half years ago, I found it necessary to remove myself arbitrarily from the family for a certain number of hours every day in order to account for my absence.

At first I had my office in New York and commuted every day from our suburban home, but later I found it was not necessary to go so far away from home and my studio was set up about a mile and a half from our dwelling.

"This plan worked splendidly, but no woman can do professional work in the atmosphere of a home where she cannot divorce herself from the multitude of household details which demand her attention."

"The woman who is doing professional work has the same inspirations that send a good husband out to do a good job at the office. Like him she has got to bring home the bacon. Trying to be a good wife and mother and at the same time being a breadwinner is one of the great problems of our modern civilization."

Mrs. Putnam plainly told her audience that life is not all beer and skittles with a writer.

Drudgery About Writing.
There necessarily is a good deal of drudgery about the daily task. Mrs. Putnam usually writes uninterruptedly from 8:30 to 9 o'clock in the morning until noon. Then she calls it a day. Plot is a matter of mechanics. First, you must find out what you have done and what others have done, and then you must string your thoughts together like beads on a string.

There must be a chart of the emotional thought underlying the story. Then you draw other lines above this main theme to present the incidents amplifying and emphasizing the main theme.

Mrs. Putnam, in her spare moments on her citrus farm in writing what she terms a serious novel. She hopes, however, it will not be too serious, because she thinks it is the greatest privilege in the world to make people laugh. Mrs. Putnam also is writing two children's books. One is a child's history of the United States.

But what bothers Mrs. Putnam the most at the moment is the amount of work to be done on the citrus farm. There are sheds to build and fences to paint. All the farming folk in her household are lending a hand and the work. Even little John Francis is doing his bit.

LIMELIGHT TO PLAY ON MOTIVES OF PUBLIC MEN

Integrity of Government Becomes Issue in National Capital as Result of Oil Exposure.

QUESTION OF ETHICS HAS BEEN RAISED

How Long After Man Has Held Office Shall He Be Prohibited From Practicing Before Government?

By DAVID LAWRENCE,
Special Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The integrity of Government—a theme which only rarely in all history has been projected into the realm of controversy—stands today as the issue overshadowing all else in the national capital. The calm that has been enforced by the adjournment of all activities out of respect to the memory of Woodrow Wilson is but the stillness that precedes the storm. The limelight will play fiercely in the next few weeks on the motives of public men and their influence in governmental action in and out of office.

Reputations are at stake; political advantages and disadvantages are bound to accrue; innocent acts will be subject to misconstruction—it's all part of the confusion that has developed out of one of the worst scandals of the present generation.

True enough, a presidential campaign is on but there are distinguished men in Congress who deplore the whole oil mess as a possible reflection on the competency of public officials and as encouragement for those who would do away with both the old political parties and start afresh a third party today as in 1912.

The lobbyists of the past, the highly paid lawyers who were hired because of their "influence" with the administrations in power, the making of the contracts for Government property without public bids, the removal of resources of Government control without regard to the needs of the Government itself—the whole disclosure is a drama of selfishness and materialism which will have a profound effect in the conduct of affairs here.

The passing of bribes to get favorable governmental action has long since become obsolete. The extension of "loans" to public officials is but one of a number of devices whereby individual conscience is sometimes assuaged but which nevertheless accomplishes the purposes for which such "loans" are sometimes given. Again and again it has been apparent that promises of positions in commercial life to men who would resign after handling favorably a case between the Government and a private concern are numerous.

Temptation of Better Pay.
The Government itself has paid its high-grade men relatively low salaries compared with the incomes given for the same class of work in commercial life.

The temptation of position and income outside the Government has been dashed before officials. Indeed, not a few men have actually gone into the Government service with the ultimate purpose of meeting business people who in later years would help them make a favorable connection.

The turnover in personnel in recent years in certain departments of the Government has been amazing. Even members of Congress, whose salaries are insufficient for their needs, have maintained connections with law firms that have engaged in practice before Government departments. Many former members of Congress have settled down to practice before the Government, making more than any other lawyers or agents would ask and simply using their intimate knowledge of the conduct of public business and red tape in particular to aid their clients. Some have become simply legislative lobbyists, endeavoring constantly to influence the course of legislation for the interests they represent.

How long after an official has held power shall he be prohibited from practicing before Government departments? What business connections should be retained by men in the office? These are questions of ethics largely, but the Congress will no doubt revive proposals hitherto made that a sharp line of demarcation be made so that men in positions of responsibility shall not be subject to the same temptations and temptations which constantly surround them.

The Teapot Dome oil scandal is of no recent origin. Murmurs were uttered about it when Secretary Fall made the leases. Whispers were heard then that something was wrong, but so deep-seated was the faith in President Harding's sincerity that what he approved was regarded at the time as necessarily all right. The chances are he never knew the details of the oil controversy. He always relied on the memoranda given him by his Cabinet officers and he never would have questioned Secretary Fall's judgment.

Thus far the controversy turns on Fall's acts and Secretary Dwyer's approval of the contracts. Other testimony will be given largely to prevent improper inferences from being drawn with respect to those who wish to defend themselves and also to develop the whole truth about the extension of oil reserves to private interests in recent years.

ATTEMPT MADE TO SHOW SENATOR REED WILL GET SOME OF THE 'OIL MONEY'

Syndicated Article Sent Out From Washington, Obviously Inspired From Sources Unfriendly to Missourian's Candidacy.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The Washington game of trying to smear the other fellow with oil and mud goes merrily on.

An article by a writer who syndicates his output to a number of newspapers was published here yesterday, directing pointed attention to the litigation in which Senator Reed of Missouri is now engaged in behalf of the Universal Oil Products Co.

The article obviously was inspired from sources unfriendly to Senator Reed's candidacy for the presidency. Its publication follows closely upon the disclosure that William G. McAdoo entered the employment of oil magnate Doheny after leaving the Cabinet—a disclosure which Reed was instrumental in bringing about, through his demand in the Senate that Doheny be recalled to the witness stand before the Senate Oil Investigating Committee.

The suit in which Reed is engaged, as explained by him in a statement published exclusively in the Post-Dispatch Sunday, is directed against the Standard Oil and other oil companies, which are alleged to have infringed the Doherty patent process for the extraction of gasoline from crude oil. The Doherty patent is held by the Universal Oil Products Co. The patent, according to Reed, is its main asset, the company not being interested in any oil lands and not being engaged in any way in the production of oil.

Armour Named as Proprietor.
If the Universal company loses the contest, Reed said, the Standard Oil and allied companies will have a complete monopoly of methods for refining heavier oils into gasoline and will be able to wring an gross, whose salaries are insufficient for their needs, have maintained connections with law firms that have engaged in practice before Government departments. Many former members of Congress have settled down to practice before the Government, making more than any other lawyers or agents would ask and simply using their intimate knowledge of the conduct of public business and red tape in particular to aid their clients. "incalculable tribute" from the people. Reed described his fight as being for freedom of conscience, for cheaper gasoline and for the people.

The syndicated article says that the chief proprietor of the Universal Oil Co. is J. Ogden Armour, chairman of the board of Armour & Co., packers, and that lawyers expect Reed will receive a huge fee, if successful.

"Reed's legal colleagues in Missouri told this writer in that State last summer," says the syndicate article, "that he was engaged in the greatest damage suit in American law history. If he won it, as they were confident he would, it would mean the assessment of damages against the Standard Oil Co. that would reduce Judge Landis' celebrated $29,000,000 fine of that corporation into paltry insignificance. The size of Senator Reed's fee, in the event of victory, was estimated at anywhere from $250,000 to $1,000,000. Some authorities said it might be twice or three either of those figures."

Plan New Attack on McAdoo.
When William G. McAdoo appears before the Senate committee to give his version of his employment by the Doherty interests, he will find the committee prepared to shoot questions regarding other legal services he has rendered since he resigned from the Cabinet to recoup his personal fortunes.

In the words of a Senator unfriendly to McAdoo, the committee will "hit him right between the eyes."

One of the cases about which McAdoo will be asked is that of the Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation, in which the principal figure is Charles W. Morse, New York banker, whom Harry Daugherty got out of Federal prison during the Taft administration, on the plea that he was about to die, but who immediately got well and resumed active operations.

Morse was one of the defendants in an action brought by the Government charging conspiracy to defraud the United States on ship contracts. It was tried recently in a District of Columbia court and Morse was acquitted. The record in this case has been put into the committee's possession and will furnish the basis of a series of questions.

One point to be brought out is that McAdoo, as attorney for the Morse company, procured for it an advance of $100,000 from the Shipping Board, then headed by John Barton Payne, to prevent a receiver being appointed for the company. For this service it is said that McAdoo charged the company a fee of $50,000 and received this amount in two payments of $25,000 each.

In September, 1919, according to the information given the committee, McAdoo's law firm took up with the Shipping Board the question of lifting the receivership of the Grotton Iron Works—a service for which he is said to have charged $50,000, but which, according to McAdoo's testimony at the Morse trial, where he appeared as a witness for Morse, never was paid.

The committee also has copies of letters showing that McAdoo was to receive a commission of $1 a ton on all coal transported to France by the United States Transportation Co. C. W. Morse, president, under a contract with French interests.

The aggregate amount of the tonnage to be carried under these contracts was 449,000, on which the McAdoo firm was to receive $449,000 in commissions. There also was an Italian contract on which the firm was to get 75 cents a ton, on approximately 400,000 tons, or about $300,000.

According to the records of the transport company, which were not, however, placed in evidence, 121,959 tons were actually carried under the Italian contract and 74,518 under the French contract, the commissions earned by the McAdoo firm amounting to $165,712.

Off this sum, the firm is said to have received $23,384 in cash and notes for a like amount, which notes McAdoo did not receive until paid. Such is the nature of the data on which the committee will draw for ammunition against the former Cabinet member.

RUSSIA TO GIVE TRADE ADVANTAGES TO ITALY

Economic Clauses in Treaty by
Will Recognize Soviet.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch
and New York World.

Copyright, 1924, by the Press and Publishing Co., Inc., New York World and the Post-Dispatch.

ROME, Feb. 6.—The Russo-Italian settlement now being negotiated is of double character, having commercial and diplomatic clauses. Not the least important is Italian recognition of the Soviet.

Immediately after ratification, which probably will be by decree, the Soviet will nominate M. Jordansky as Ambassador to the Quirinal, and Italy probably will make Marquis Paterno Ambassador to Moscow. Jordansky has been the driving force on the Russian side of the negotiations.

The commercial part of the settlement will be for the Soviet to supply hard grain for the southern Italian macaroni factories and Italy is permitting the Soviet to take property here formerly owned by the Czarist Government. This includes the embassy, which has been housing refugees of the old regime.

Costing trade on the Black Sea is reserved for Italian ships. One clause of the settlement declares both countries soon will revive exchange of consular offices along pre-war lines.

Regarding Italian property in Russia, the Soviet probably will agree to restore it if the former owners will share profits with the Government. The Post-Dispatch and New York World learn the aspect of the settlement has not yet been examined in detail.

Italy's de jure recognition of the Soviet Government is embodied in the first clause of the settlement, and is followed by a Soviet promise to abstain from political propaganda in Italy.

BOBBED-HAIRED MOTHER OF 5
Brooklyn Woman, 24, and Two Members of Supposed Band
Taken in Raid.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Mrs. Mary Cady, 24 years old, blond, bobbed-haired and attractive, and the mother of five children, was arrested today on suspicion of being the bobbed-haired woman who has led a score of Brooklyn robber raids in the last few weeks.

Mrs. Cady, together with the women roomers in her Brooklyn flat, and the supposed members of her holdup band, was taken in a raid. The police said they found the apartment a seakink coat and a strikingly colored turban corresponding to the description given by holdup victims as the garment and hat worn by the bobbed-haired robber, in leading her depredations.

Two men—Richard Gibbons and Matthew Boyd—were charged with assault and robbery. Gibbons, the police said, admitted a recent hold-up, but denied that Mrs. Cady was concerned. Mrs. Cady, who is separated from her husband and whose five children are in institutions, also denied she was the widely sought woman robber.

HAS FEELING FOXHUNTING

British Lord Expresses Opinion That Sport Will Endure What ever Government Comes Into Power.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON.—Governments may come and Governments may go, but the old English pastime of fox hunting will go on forever.

If this opinion is not shared by the majority of farmers in Britain, over whose lands the hunters ride, it is by Lord Hillingdon, master of the Grafton Hunt, for speaking at the annual meeting of the hunt, the noble lord said: "Whatever Government comes into power, I have a feeling that we shall carry on fox hunting somehow."

The present season of fox hunting here has not gone as smoothly from the point of view of the chasers, for they have been debarred from crossing lands on which the foot and mouth disease has broken out. Consequently sport has been greatly curtailed, and the number of hunting days considerably reduced.

East last year stocked a small island northwest of here with several dozen pairs of foxes, spending many thousands of dollars of gold dust in the deal. Expecting the little animals on the rocky island, East left for the mainland on business. Bad weather prevented landing on his island for two weeks and upon returning 17 adult foxes had been eaten. Foxes, while able to obtain much food along the beaches, must be fed regularly at least once in two days. East's cash loss is $4000.

RUSSIA TO GIVE TRADE ADVANTAGES TO ITALY

Economic Clauses in Treaty by
Will Recognize Soviet.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch
and New York World.

Copyright, 1924, by the Press and Publishing Co., Inc., New York World and the Post-Dispatch.

ROME, Feb. 6.—The Russo-Italian settlement now being negotiated is of double character, having commercial and diplomatic clauses. Not the least important is Italian recognition of the Soviet.

Immediately after ratification, which probably will be by decree, the Soviet will nominate M. Jordansky as Ambassador to the Quirinal, and Italy probably will make Marquis Paterno Ambassador to Moscow. Jordansky has been the driving force on the Russian side of the negotiations.

The commercial part of the settlement will be for the Soviet to supply hard grain for the southern Italian macaroni factories and Italy is permitting the Soviet to take property here formerly owned by the Czarist Government. This includes the embassy, which has been housing refugees of the old regime.

Costing trade on the Black Sea is reserved for Italian ships. One clause of the settlement declares both countries soon will revive exchange of consular offices along pre-war lines.

Regarding Italian property in Russia, the Soviet probably will agree to restore it if the former owners will share profits with the Government. The Post-Dispatch and New York World learn the aspect of the settlement has not yet been examined in detail.

Italy's de jure recognition of the Soviet Government is embodied in the first clause of the settlement, and is followed by a Soviet promise to abstain from political propaganda in Italy.

Members of Supposed Band
Taken in Raid.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Mrs. Mary Cady, 24 years old, blond, bobbed-haired and attractive, and the mother of five children, was arrested today on suspicion of being the bobbed-haired woman who has led a score of Brooklyn robber raids in the last few weeks.

Mrs. Cady, together with the women roomers in her Brooklyn flat, and the supposed members of her holdup band, was taken in a raid. The police said they found the apartment a seakink coat and a strikingly colored turban corresponding to the description given by holdup victims as the garment and hat worn by the bobbed-haired robber, in leading her depredations.

Two men—Richard Gibbons and Matthew Boyd—were charged with assault and robbery. Gibbons, the police said, admitted a recent hold-up, but denied that Mrs. Cady was concerned. Mrs. Cady, who is separated from her husband and whose five children are in institutions, also denied she was the widely sought woman robber.

British Lord Expresses Opinion
That Sport Will Endure What
Into Power.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON.—Governments may come and Governments may go, but the old English pastime of fox hunting will go on forever.

If this opinion is not shared by the majority of farmers in Britain, over whose lands the hunters ride, it is by Lord Hillingdon, master of the Grafton Hunt, for speaking at the annual meeting of the hunt, the noble lord said: "Whatever Government comes into power, I have a feeling that we shall carry on fox hunting somehow."

The present season of fox hunting here has not gone as smoothly from the point of view of the chasers, for they have been debarred from crossing lands on which the foot and mouth disease has broken out. Consequently sport has been greatly curtailed, and the number of hunting days considerably reduced.

False Modesty Wrecks Health

THE young lady just assuming the responsibilities of a woman is very apt to be self-conscious of her physical functions, and in consequence neglect them. There is no time, however, when it is more important for her to look after them. Chief among her troubles is constipation, and her suffering will be serious when she gets older if she does not regulate her bowels now. Mrs. Mary Kellar of 132 Benton St., Sistrerville, W. Va., was perplexed about her daughter until her own druggist told her they used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at her house, and she did likewise. Miss Irene Mazierka of 90 Peter St., Buffalo, N. Y., is glad her attention was called to Syrup Pepsin.

Safe for Young and Old
Let mothers with growing daughters interest themselves in this matter and see that their judgment is enforced. A rule followed by many is to take a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin once a week until the bowels function daily, and at such other times as there is headache, biliousness, sores and fever blisters, lack of energy and appetite, sleeplessness, indigestion.

HAMILTON HOLT'S ESTIMATE OF WILSON

Former Editor Summarizes Five Outstanding Achievements of War-Time President.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1924.)

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 6.—Five outstanding achievements of Woodrow Wilson, any one of which would have entitled him to be ranked among the greatest men in world history.

That is the tribute paid to the dead war President by Hamilton Holt, former editor of the Independent, world jurist and intimate associate of Mr. Wilson in all of his work for world peace. Holt enumerated the outstanding achievements of Mr. Wilson in connection with the World War as follows:

"First, it was Woodrow Wilson who focused the heterogeneous and often diverse aims of the war on pure Democracy which is nothing but Americanism. With one accord the peoples of the earth followed the banner which he unfurled. As a result a dozen or more republics were born in the peace conference convened in the likeness of the United States.

Elevated U. S. Morally.
"Second, Woodrow Wilson was the constituted spokesman and decided the position of the United States in the war. If he had appealed to our selfish nature we would have undoubtedly followed him, but he appealed to the best in us and informed the world that we would take nothing of territory indemnity at the peace table. That elevated the United States to the highest moral position we or any other nation has ever attained.

"3. Woodrow Wilson was the man who drove the wedge in between the Hohenzollerns and the German people—that resulted in Germany's becoming a republic. It caused every throne to totter, a mighty good thing for the world.

"4. Woodrow Wilson enunciated the terms on which peace was negotiated. Some one else might have done it. He did it. As a result peace was negotiated at Versailles instead of being dictated at Berlin. Thus were saved the lives of the quarters of a million soldiers and as many Germans.

"5. Woodrow Wilson was the first man on earth able by his position and by his vision to translate the age-old dream of poets, prophets and philosophers into practical statesmanship and to establish a league of nations to substitute co-operation for competition in international affairs and to hasten the establishment of peace and good will on earth.

"Some have pitied this great soldier of conscience who fell wounded in the course of his great fight. I do not pity him. I envy him.

"I pity the American people who have not yet finished the work which he and those boys who sleep in the fields of France began. It is for us to keep faith with the dead."

Chesterton and Shaw Quarrel Over Breakfast

"Bacon and Eggs Must Never Die," Says One—"Fresh Fruit, My Mouth Waters," Replies the Other.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch
and New York World.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—George Bernard Shaw and G. K. Chesterton have been giving out interviews all day on the subject of the English breakfast. Peggy O'Neill started the quarrel by writing a letter to a newspaper, asserting the Englishman's breakfast of bacon and eggs reduced the originality of their outlook. She pleaded for more fruit at breakfast.

The two literary gentlemen immediately entered into a discussion through interviews, which have gone like this:

Chesterton. "I am very fond of Americans and admire many things in American society, but not their breakfasts. They have none because they sleep in hot houses.

Shaw. "I don't see how they can sleep in hot houses. There is nothing for it but to drink gallons of iced water or alcohol and nibble fresh fruit. It is the worst kind of materialism to think meat turns to refuse immediately it enters the body. If there is one glorious thing in England, which must never die it is the breakfast of bacon and eggs."

Shaw. "Why bacon? Do Jews never enjoy breakfast?"

Chesterton. "Anyone who cannot be bright over their breakfast must be a confirmed pessimist."

Shaw. "Why? Pessimists who are always confirmed in their views by the morning paper are usually particularly bright and 'told you so' at breakfast."

Chesterton. "If there is anything to justify armed assault on the United States it is their attempt to introduce iced water and fresh fruit in bulk to the English breakfast table."

Shaw. "Must we always be condemned to slops and marmalade? No, if we had buckwheat cakes and molasses I would have sympathized. But fresh fruit! My mouth waters!"

Chesterton. "Mr. Shaw would have been a very intelligent man if only he had allowed his boiled ele-

'MEN EITHER CRANKERS OR SELF-STARTERS'

Prof. Holmes Says the First Class Grouches in Ranks, Second Originates.

"Not one man in this house or anywhere else uses one-third of his brain. If a man learned 50,000 new things in a day he would not put all his brains to work in 30 years. There is no danger of an over-crowded brain."

Thus Arthur L. Holmes, professor of psychology at the University of Pennsylvania, addressed the St.
Louis Traffic Club at Hotel Jefferson yesterday. He divided the men of the business world into two general classes—the "self-starters" and the "crankers." The first class is endowed with constructive imagination and tact, and rises to the heights, while the other "grouches" in the ranks.

"Must Originate Something."
"To be an executive a man must originate something," Prof. Holmes declared. "He must have originality—constructive imagination. Most imagination is simply memory. Memory reproduces the past. To be an executive a man must rearrange and readapt the ideas stored in his memory. He must find the solution to his problems in a way no man ever thought of before."

"There is a vast group of men in this world with absolutely no ambition to become executives. They don't want responsibility; they want to learn their job and then do it mechanically eight hours a day.
After that day, these men make up the great mass of workers of the world."

The Men Who Grumble.
"These are the men who grumble and grouse. 'My job is rotten.
I can't get on my feet. I'm sick of this business of square pegs in round holes.' If a man doesn't fit into his job, he can drive himself in and make himself fit. No job is perfect."

"You can no more keep an ambitious man down than you can keep your wife from doing as she pleases. A tactful woman will have her own way. So will a tactful young man. He has the imagination to 'get around' his boss. No big problem in this world was ever solved except in a new way—the fruit of one man's imagination and tact."

"Common sense" was the keynote of Prof. Holmes' talk. "Psychology," he declared, "is nothing but common sense applied to human nature."

I suffered for three years with high been without it since and never will while I live. I have told many people about it and they all got good results

VOODOO 'DOC' LAYS HEADACHES TO DEVIL

Rabbit's Foot Fails to Save Negro Practitioner From Arrest.

"Doc" Lockhart, a negro, is under arrest charged with having treated the sick without a license.
Since his earliest recollection he has been called "Doc." That patient fact, it would seem, together with the confidence inspired by possession of a medicine vendor's license, a little bag of voodoo charms and a rabbit's foot, served him as good and sufficient reason why he should be found in attendance at the sick bed of a negro on Morgan street, when Sanitary Officer Fishwick called to determine, in the interest of the city Health Department, "how come."

His Sleeves Rolled Up.
"Doc" himself admitted Officer Fishwick. His sleeves were rolled in the best professional manner.
Near a glowing stove stood a tub of hot water. At the side of the tub, gazing dubiously into the steaming water, sat the obviously ailing woman. Her face bespoke profound dejection. The rotundity of her body suggested, more plainly, an advanced case of dropsy.

What was going on, the officer wanted to know.
"Why, I'm going to give the patient a bath," answered "Doc," proffering a large paper of reddish looking salts, evidently intended for use in this performance.

Fishwick was not impressed.
What was that brown stuff at the side of the patient's bed?
A liniment, of course, as the hand-written label would plainly show. That was for headaches. A headache, as Fishwick surely should know, was caused by the devil, who, to effect such a pain, spent idle moments scampering hither and yon between the scalp and skull of the afflicted person.

The staggering odor of this concoction and a row of blisters on the forehead of the suffering woman lent strong conviction as to its effectiveness.

But, nevertheless, "Doc" was arrested.
A raid made yesterday on "Doc's" room at 1723 Lucas avenue yielded a great pile of metal and glass instruments of sorts, more voodoo charms and an array of bottles containing fluids purporting, by their labels, to cure pains and ailments in either man or beast.

TELLS HOW FOODS ARE

Adulteration of food products with water is not necessarily de-some unusual fraudulent practices in trade, says Ernest R. Smith, chief of the food and drug labora-

Agriculture in the old customhouse, Third and Olive streets.

Speaking before the St. Louis section of the American Chemical Society at a dinner and meeting at the Warwick Hotel Monday night, Smith told of one such case. A St.
Louis poultry shipper sent three cartloads of dressed chickens to an Eastern soup manufacturer. The fowls were found to be five to 12 ounces each overweight. Governmental laboratory investigation disclosed that the shipper had increased the weight by injecting water and then freezing the birds.
Civil and criminal investigation resulted.

CHARGES OF IMPERSONATING

Woman and Two Men Held for Soliciting Business for Abandoned Director.

Federal warrants were issued today against Charles Kollmeyer, Hurl Wells and Miss Catherine Quigley, charging Kollmeyer and Miss Quigley with impersonating government officers and all three with conspiracy to impersonate government officers. Their bonds were fixed at $2000 each.

They were arrested yesterday following an investigation which tended to show that they and others had been soliciting advertising and subscriptions for a directory which was abandoned 18 months ago. Kollmeyer formerly was secretary of the St. Louis local National Federal Employers' Association, which sponsored the directory. He was dismissed from the Federal service six months ago.

COLDS AND HEADACHES

—Relieve them, but Cure them, too

Of course relieve the unpleasantness of a cold or headache, but be sure and do something to cure and remove the cause of it also.

Fain aspirin will give you temporary relief; however, it does nothing to cure the cold, headache or fever. After the aspirin has done its work it lies in the stomach along with the other wastes that have caused the trouble. This does not help matters and is often dangerous.

BRO-ASPRIN has enough aspirin in it to give relief and it also contains other ingredients that help remove the cause of the ailment, including a mild vegetable laxative that eliminates the aspirin and other wastes from the system.

TWO HELD FOR ALLEGED PLOT TO BRIBE WITNESS

Policeman Overhears Women Demand the Return of $100 Paid to Complainant in Robbery.

Bribing prosecuting witnesses in criminal cases is frequently practiced in the St. Louis courts, but in spite of the activity of police and prosecuting officials, proof rarely comes to light.

Yesterday, through the alertness of Patrolman Alfred E. Schleifstein, assigned to Circuit Attorney's office, such a case was exposed. $95 of alleged bribe money seized, and a woman and a man held for questioning.

The case was that of Stanley Getch, 18, of 1717 North Ninth street, and Dave Klegman, 29, of 4546 De Tonty street, charged with robbing Tony Pappas in front of his home, 3582 Franklin avenue, last Thursday. Pappas, who conducts a candy shop at 319 North Grand boulevard, lost $2. He identified the two youths the next day when they were arrested with Joseph Bova, 23, of 1591 Mullikan street.

Pappas was in the grand jury room yesterday, waiting to be questioned. Patrolman Schleifstein noticed two women and a man talking to him. He had heard a rumor that Pappas had been paid not to testify before the grand jury, and was surprised when Pappas maintained his identification and the two youths were indicted. Then he learned that the women had met Pappas outside and threatened him.

Schleifstein drove to Pappas' candy store and stationed himself in the kitchen. Presently the women entered and demanded return of $100. Pappas counted out $95 and while they argued over the balance, Schleifstein appeared, seized the money and arrested the women.

Man and Woman Held.

The women described themselves as Mrs. Augusta Bova Blonde and Mrs. Victoria Bova, sister and wife, respectively, of Joseph Bova. Pappas said Clarence Hicks, 1716 North Tenth street, a merchant, paid him $100 not to testify before the grand jury. Hicks refused to make a statement, and Circuit Attorney Silener ordered Hicks and Mrs. Blonde held on $1500 bonds under the bribery statute, the technical charge being "tampering with a witness."

Mrs. Blonde told Silener she chanced to meet Pappas yesterday in the afternoon and he said he had $100 to give her and asked that she call for it at his store. Accordingly, she went there, she said, knowing Pappas did not owe her any money. She said Pappas had explained his desire to give her the money by saying he did "not want that kind of money."

Told that her story was not believed, she insisted it was true and denied knowledge of any attempt to bribe. She said she intended to take the money from Pappas before the grand jury and "start an investigation."

Witness Against Negro Woman.

An alleged highway robber, on the docket in Judge Jitner's Court as "Maggie Macon, 30 years old, negro, of 1404 Chestnut street," figured yesterday in an apparent attempt to defeat justice through convenient disappearance of the prosecuting witness.

George Rampott, white, of 322A Benton street, was supposed to be in court to testify that the negro woman had him up at an alley on Wash street between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets Dec. 23 and robbed him of $22.

But Rampott did not answer to his name. He was brought in on an attachment later in the day. When questioned, Rampott asserted that a negro told him that Maggie Macon's case was all settled and he could go home, and that if he would go to 252 Walnut street some day, he could obtain $20. He went home, but did not go out to the Walnut street address. Detectives did, however, and arrested William Ross, a negro, of 2229 Washington avenue. Ross, having helped Rampott suggest paying of $20, not he.

Ross is held, and meanwhile Maggie's case is expected to come up again today or tomorrow with Rampott in court to testify.

"POPULAR"

Pertaining to the people at large; widely trusted or admired; prevalent among the people.—Standard Dictionary.

In every city in America there is one newspaper that is universally recognized as the most popular "want ad" medium. That distinction is the most envied that can come to any great newspaper, because it is the favorable verdict of all of the people, rendered only for faithful service to readers and profitable results to advertisers.

Supremacy in the "want ad" field in any city is a priceless possession of that distinguished newspaper which has earned it. It must be secured through years of satisfactory results to the advertiser—satisfactory service to the reader. It cannot be obtained through schemes of inflation or even the absolutely free insertion of advertisements. It must be built by service and protected by the rejection of the unworthy or the misleading advertisement.

In 1923 the Post-Dispatch Carried 4,807,880 Lines
of Real Estate and Want Advertising

The Post-Dispatch Gained 619,820 Lines of Real Estate and Want Advertising in 1923 Over 1922, Which Made Last Year the Greatest Year the Post-Dispatch Has Ever Recorded in Real Estate and Want Advertising.

This was 855,080 lines more than the combined volume of Real Estate and Want Ads published in 1923 by BOTH the Globe-Democrat and The Star.

Real Estate and Want advertisers in St. Louis have learned that results—plus economy—can be obtained through concentration in St. Louis' ONE BIG "Want" Directory—the Post-Dispatch.

Champion Lewis, Before Willa Superb Shape, Defeats Gardini

Wrestling Results

Ed Lewis defeated Renato Gardini, two straight falls, first fall 1:14.42; second fall 14:12. Lewis used an arm lock and a head lock to gain the respective falls.

Josef Gurkewicz defeated William Beth with a leg scissors and a half Nelson.

Johnny Kilonis defeated Tom Cannon with a head scissors and toe hold in 17:16.

By John E. Wray.

Wrestling Champion Ed Lewis, with his giant frame trimmed of the usual bubber and in fitter condition than for any match in which he has appeared here in years, performed no miracles in flattening the Italian grand-stander, Renato Gardini, at the Coliseum, last night.

Two straight falls. If there was any miracle about the match it was the performance of Gardini himself in lasting one hour and over 14 minutes before Lewis forced him to the mat with one of his newest specialties, the grape-vine arm lock.

Gardini also caused a huge surge in the early part of the match. In an amazing display of strength, he three occasions, in breaking down his opponent, whirled around, lifted Lewis from the floor and flung him rolling over and over to the ropes. Lewis held under the lower arm, making him lose his footing. The third time, Lewis forced him out of the ring and stopped a ring post.

Lewis indulged his foe. Gardini, 26 pounds lighter than the champion, was unable to injure Lewis by these tactics, however, and apparently lapsed over the hour in the first fall on sufferance. Several times he had headlocks, in scissors and flit-jets-holds that took Lewis twice he had Lewis lock within two inches of the ring. On many occasions he forced Lewis to seek sanctuary in the ropes where, by agreement before the match, the referee parted the two and sent them back to the ring. But the great strength of Lewis enabled him to burst through all restraining grips.

Lewis, who is prepping himself for a real title campaign, to judge by his fine condition, was seemingly testing himself. He likes to rest standing, but last night he was on the floor much of the time. He is not supposed to be at the match, but against Gardini he took the mat frequently, using grapevine arm lock which forced Gardini and gradually were worn out. A suspension of these for the hour had passed, reduced the Italian to nonresistance and the one hold finally pinned him.

Gardini headlocks fails. Gardini was quickly expanded in a second fall. Lewis had to catch him by the hair of his head, and made short work of the enemy. Lewis is not only a champion wrestler, but is a near-champion actor. His work made the crowd roar and he appeared up and tuck. He succeeded hold rapidly in the second fall and Actor Lewis made Gardini look very good. Gardini seemed to remember his first fall. Leaping at Gardini he applied four successive headlocks to the Milanese bean. The first two ended. Lewis pressed Gardini's shoulder blades to the mat, and when he arose the Italian was still guilty from the head squeezing.

The show was notable for unusual holds. To begin with, Tom Kilonis, in the preliminary, introduced the finger-roll hold. When the former champion, Johnny Kilonis, had Cannon in a bad way, he was more a minute on the average. Cannon would claw and take his back with his finger nails, and red welts on the Greek's back. The finger-roll grip failed to stop Kilonis, but it got his "mad" and the way he slammed the mat for around indicated that his daughter would be the mischief charge against him. Cannon was, however, and yielded. In the meantime, Kilonis' back looked like the battle ground of a couple of cow rats.

Ropes Aid the Champion. Gardini exhibited a Jim Jarm arm lock, apparently was held in the ropes. He had Lewis threatened. Every time he could, Lewis backed his opponent to the ropes as the method of breaking the grip. The ropes method of hold-breaking was the wrath of the Latin people, who did not know of the argument on this point.

Lewis' grape-vine arm lock was without warning. Hard to get a doctor, when minutes counted so much. The mother gave a relief was almost instantaneous without vomiting. Dr. Drake's Glucose has been in use for years, and is recognized as the favorite remedy for cramps, whooping cough, and children's coughs. Ask your doctor or your druggist. World $50.00.

St. Louis, Mo.Dear Doctor Coe—I had been afflicted with internal, itching (pruritus) piles and ulceration for several years. The last year I was in severe pain, day and night. I had suffered until my nerves were in a serious condition. I thought the trouble was the nerves, but when I came under your treatment, I found the nerve trouble disappearing as the rectal trouble grew better.I cannot thank you enough for your kindness and gentleness while treating me. I had had so much pain from the affliction that I surely appreciated your gentleness.I would recommend anyone who is afflicted with any form of rectal trouble,

KILLED BY LIONESSCompany Filming "Quo Vadis?" Sees Tragedy at Circus Maxi-mus of Nero at Rome.By the Associated Press.
ROME, Feb. 5.—An enraged lioness yesterday tore or mauled to death an aged Italian, Augusto Palombi, a "super" in a moving picture company which was filming "Quo Vadis?" The entire company witnessed the tragedy.Several lions and lionesses had been brought into the arena of the circus Maximus of Nero, which was constructed for the picture.
The lioness became highly excited and jumped over the barrier and landed squarely upon Palombi and began tearing at his flesh and crushing his bones with her huge paws.Actors and actresses, directors, camera men and "extras" fled in terror from the arena as the beast was mauling its victim. The keepers of the lions alone seemed to retain their presence of mind and endeavored to beat back the lioness into her place inside the arena.
This they were able to accomplish only after they had wounded her several times with revolver shots.The old man was almost lifeless when picked up and was dead when he arrived at the hospital.
The police arrested the director of the film play. They say that the company filming the play was without authorization to have the lions in the enclosure.RAIL LABOR BOARD UPHOLDS DEMAND OF TELEGRAPHERSPennsylvania Railroad Ordered to Cancel Scheduled Election and Confer With The Employees.By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—The United States Railroad Labor Board yesterday upheld contentions of telegraphers' representatives chosen by this class of employees of the Pennsylvania Railroad, that elections held by the road in 1921 and 1923 were illegal and called upon the company to cancel an election which it had scheduled for Friday, Feb. 8 and to arrange with employees for another election.The board also ruled that the telegraphers might choose an organization to represent them if they desired and that they might hold the election themselves if the company did not co-operate.The board held that the representatives of the employees were contending that they would not be the legal representatives of the employees had the carrier not excluded the name of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers from the ballot. "A pretext of character or race for affecting the rights of such a large number of employees cannot be strangled by a technicality. It is manifestly fallacious," the board added, "to say that the telegraphers are stopped from attacking an election, because of their participation in it, when such participation was to all intents and purposes compulsory."The board held that the elections were in violation of the transportation act of 1920.FIVE PERSONS KILLED IN

PRINCETON, Ky., Feb. 6.— Five persons were killed in a boiler explosion which wrecked the plant of the Crider rolling mill at Crider, seven miles from here, last night.
The dead: W. Gorman, owner of the owner's son; Edward Ramage, miller; Hugh Ramage, his son, and J. E. Kammann, boiler maker.The five killed were the only persons in the building at the time of the blast, which resulted when a boiler they were testing exploded.Ramage was the stepfather of Mrs. Rosetta Warren, victim of a dynamite blast in Paducah last spring. Two women, Mrs. Henrietta Wagner and Mrs. Emma Skill-

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—With the arrest here of Benjamin Greenberg of New York on charges of conspiracy in connection with the $1,- 000,000 mail truck robbery in Los Angeles, three years ago, Federal authorities said that all the persons in this city wanted on charges growing out of the robbery have been accounted for. Two others, Bert R. Chapman and Harry Maniff also are under arrest here. A fourth, Charles Solomon, is serving a sentence in Allanta Prison for subornation of perjury. Greenberg surrendered at the Federal Building yesterday.
He was arraigned before United States Commissioner Nelson, enticed by tales of not guilty and was held in $500 for a hearing Feb.
26, when the question of his removal to California will be in issue.The conspiracy indictment returned at Los Angeles named 25 individuals. According to Federal officials, men arrested in this city are not charged with complicity in the actual robbery, but with passing bonds that formed part of the loot. More than $300,000 worth of bonds, said to have been stolen from the mail truck, have

THE FOUR SHRINES AROUND TUTANKHAMEN'S SARCOPHAGUS

In reaching the sarcophagus of King Tutankhamen at Luxor, Howard Carter had a formidable task. There are in all, four shrines; of these the doors of the outer shrine were removed to facilitate the opening of the inner shrines. There are thus now three pairs of doors opening outward from the sarcophagus; between the outer shrine and the second was discovered the remains of a gorgeous pall which formerly covered the whole of the second shrine, and on the doors was a cord fastening bearing the seal of the King. When this had been severed, there remained only two other shrines to penetrate before the whole beauty of the pink stone sarcophagus containing the mummy of the King was disclosed to the ravished eyes of the discoverers. On the end of this wonderful stone coffin are the outspread angels' wings which cover all the sides of the sarcophagus. The drawing above illustrates the four successive shrines covering the inner sarcophagus; the insets show (at the top) the Royal Necropolis seal on the shrine; (bottom left) the statue of Tutankhamen in the Cairo Museum; and (bottom right) a scarab showing Tutankhamen between the two gods, Horus and Tum.

Teaching How to Save

By Wm. A. McKeever

Noted Lecturer and Authority on Educational and Sociological Subjects.

In 489 towns and cities the school children now have on deposit $2,500,000.

That sounds good. But unless the mind and the ideals of the child be directed in the matter of saving money the value of the training is much lowered. So believes Thomas P. Wallace of the American Bankers' Association, as given in a statement published in the Journal of Education. Thrift education, according to his idea, should mean:

First, the training of the individual not only to become a self-sustaining member of society, but so that he will be willing and able in time to repay to society at least a part of the debt he owes it.

Second, the development of the individual's self-control to such an extent that he will be willing to sacrifice the gratification of trivial present desires in order to attain the greater permanent good.

Third, the acquisition by him of sufficient knowledge that he may know how to spend wisely.

"The moment you introduce the goal of commercial gain into the school savings account, in place of the education of the child," this wise counselor continues, "you depart from the ideals of its founders and endanger the entire edifice."

It is an easy matter to arrange to have children recite as to the purpose and use of the small amounts which come into their possession. Assuming that a certain class has the topic under discussion, these questions should be considered by the young members themselves, and thus an exchange of ideas effected:

How can a boy or girl of the given grade earn small amounts of his own? How much of the money he actually earns—what fraction of it, for example—should be put into the savings account? Is it right and good business training for children to have stated before their associates the amount they have on deposit? Is there a code of honesty in buying and selling which children need to have brought to their attention?

Earn, spend, save, give—these are the four departments of money instruction which should be sharply brought to the attention of the child. How many parents and teachers are actually giving attention to all these equally important aspects of money?

Mr. Wallace is right. His high ideals as to the purpose of the school savings account—that is, that character should stand out above money—ought to be broadcasted to every part of this great land.

Do You Keep Promises?

By RUTH LEIGH

NOT long ago, some one asked a prominent department store buyer, a woman whose salary is written in five figures, to what she attributed her success. She answered promptly:

"Whatever success I have reached is based on one lesson I learned early in my business career: to keep a promise. I made one. If I told a customer that goods would be there in two days, I made it my business to get them there in two days, if it meant putting every one in our store to the greatest inconvenience. I don't think there is anything that gets one the same reputation for honesty and fair dealing in business as keeping a promise."

This buyer has certainly hit upon a vital point that may well be considered by all of us, whether we work in store or office. There is too much oh-well-he-won't-mind-waiting-a-little-longer, in business today. We seem to have lost our ability to be punctual, to be accurate, to keep promises. As we have become slippish in doing much of our work, we have become slippish in performing that which we agree to do.

This is not because we mean to be dishonest—far from it. It is simply because we fail to realize the importance of living up to an agreement.

If you will take as your slogan: "A promise made is a debt unpaid," you will be more careful about keeping to your word. Have you agreed to have certain letters ready by 3 o'clock? Have you promised a customer that her goods will be delivered by 10 in the morning? Have you agreed to call up Mr. Greene on the phone at noon? Then do that which you have promised, and if you cannot possibly live up to your promise, notify the other person in due time.

It's just a habit, girls. It's an easy habit to get into—that of keeping promises, and it will carry you further toward business success than almost any other habit. Get in the habit of being careful and punctilious about little things and this will be a valuable asset all through your life. Copyright 1924, Press Publishing Co.

The Revelations of a Paid Companion

By JANE PHELPS

A Daily Story of Rare Interest

I had counted the money—now I emptied it upon the table and counted it again—$1.65 between me and absolute want.

MUSIC HATH CHARMS.

CHAPTER I.

I LOOKED helplessly about the room, the place that for two years had been my only sanctuary, and that was mine no longer. I had hated it, the sordid meagerness, the dull drab walls, yet now found tears coming to my eyes when I realized it was mine no longer.

It was my birthday. I was 19 years old. My lip quivered as I remembered. I wondered if any other girl was ever so lonely, so alone on her birthday? Other girls had parties, gifts, wishes for happiness and I—I had nothing. Absolutely nothing.

After tonight I wouldn't even have a roof over my head. Late sunlight from the small window illumined the dingy room, and cast a spot of light upon my small trunk strapped and ready to go—where? I caught a glimpse of myself in the mirror, a slender, stricken thing.

I had lost faith. Petty and contemptible seemed the old familiar teachings about God. What did He, God, care for a girl like me? He had let me be deceived, allowed me to get into this terrible condition. He had taken from me those I loved, had let me suffer. He had not answered my prayers. I would pray no more. If God refused to help me, why prayers were of no avail.

My thoughts flashed back only a little over two years, years that had seemed a century so filled with loneliness and misery were they. Tears filled my eyes. Then I had had a home, a father and mother. Now they were gone. God had taken them from me, taken them all at once. And now He had taken what for two long, weary, heart-breaking years I had been told was to be mine. The mean little cottage where I had been little less than a slave to Aunt Agatha's whims.

I turned, and the sight of my worn purse on the table brought a twisted smile to my lips. How much lay between me and absolute want? I had counted the money in the morning, but now I emptied it upon the table and counted again. One dollar and 65 cents. I had eaten no dinner, there was nothing in the house, I would have to go out. As I fingered the coins I heard a strain of music, a blind man playing in the street. I am passionately fond of music, and as I listened all thoughts of food left me. I would go somewhere and hear some good music. What if it took all I had? I would soon be beyond the need of food unless a miracle happened.

I put on my hat. I would go to one of the large motion picture houses in which Los Angeles abounded, one where there was an orchestra. As I walked to the car some people in front of me were talking rather loudly, and unconsciously I listened. The Hollywood Bowl—they were going there; some famous singer was to sing, someone they were anxious to hear. Although I had been in Los Angeles over two years, I never had been to the Bowl. A sudden impulse decided me to follow them. It would cost more, but I figured I would have enough, so I boarded the car when they did.

I followed them from the car, up the long lane leading to the Bowl, and there I lost them. But taking one of the 50-cent seats, I found myself in the most wonderful place I ever had seen, or my fancy pictured. A great natural bowl with great hills rising about it, seeming to enclose it, to shut it out from the rest of the world. Thousands of people occupied the seats, while the orchestra on a raised platform or stage was preparing to play.

It was a glorious night. The stars twinkled overhead, no more quiet than the vast throng who seemed scarcely to breathe when the first strains of Wagner's "Rienzi" filled the air. The hills, a perfect sounding board, made each note distinct even where I sat, almost on the upper edge of the bowl.

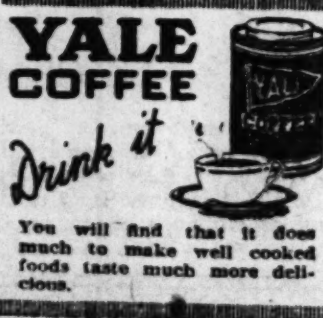

I scarcely breathed as the concert progressed. My soul feasted on the symphonies. I felt my despair slipping from me, and my heart swelled with gladness, as Beethoven's Seventh finished the concert. In a daze I arose and followed the crowd—now a noisy, approving crowd, all talking of the masterly playing of the orchestra. Near the exit I saw an evening paper. I picked it up. I was too excited to sleep—music always made me wakeful—I would read this paper before I went to bed.

Famous Women

PRINCESS DE LAMBALLE

MARIE THERESA LOUISE of Savoy-Carignan, Princess de Lamballe, was born in Turin, Italy, in September, 1749. She married the Duke of Bourbon-Penthièvre, who died leaving her a young, beautiful and wealthy widow. She became attached to the household of Queen Marie Antoinette, whose deep affection she won. When the French royal family fled to Varennes, Mme. Lamballe escaped to England, but hearing of the imprisonment of her royal mistress, she returned to France, where she was seized by the revolutionary mob and brought to trial. Her judges, appreciating her devotion, were inclined to spare her, but she was seized by the mob and literally torn and cut to pieces. Her head was placed upon a pike and paraded before the view of the imprisoned Queen.

USING CANNED VEGETABLES.

By HANNAH WANG.

An Authority on Matters Pertaining to the Home.

MOST of the world now gets its certain proportion of its winter vegetables at least from a can or glass jar. Methods of canning have been so greatly improved that both quality and flavor make the change from the garden scarcely noticeable.

It is possible to improve upon the quality of these canned vegetables by bettering the method of preparation. Much of that "canned" or deadly flat taste that some people accuse the canned vegetables of possessing may be changed so as to bring the original pristine freshness of flavor back, by giving the vegetable an airing before it is cooked.

To do this open the can and empty the contents out into a shallow earthen dish, where they may stand exposed to the air for an hour or two before using. This will make a great change in the flavor of canned peas especially.

Canned vegetables should, of course, be heated in the liquid from the can lest any flavor be lost, but if seasoning is to be added a part or all of this liquid should be drained off before the seasoning is added, otherwise the vegetables will either be a sloppy, watery mess when served or a perfectly good fat and flavor will disappear down the kitchen sink. The liquid should go into the soup pot.

Canned vegetables like fresh ones are improved by addition of seasoning. Heating or almost frying beans, spinach or any of the greens in butter or bacon fat seasoned with a bit of finely minced onion and serving them with a dash of lemon or vinegar greatly improves the flavor.

With some vegetable combinations either green pepper or onion may be used for flavor, others are improved by adding another vegetable such as carrots and peas and some natural brooks favor a wee bit of fresh mint with peas.

Salt, pepper and cream, butter or bacon fat, onion and lemon or vinegar will usually serve to give the flavor desired if the surplus water is removed before the vegetables are seasoned.

The Convalescents' Tray

Clam Broth.

SELECT the long neck clams for delicate flavor. Thoroughly scrub the shells of a dozen clams, cover with a cup of cold water and when shells open remove the clams and chop them; drain the liquor into a clean saucepan; add the chopped clams, let them boil quickly for five minutes; strain through a cloth; add one-half cupful of water if necessary, or milk may be substituted for the water. Reheat to boiling point and serve at once with plain or salted wafers.

Scrambled Egg.

Break an egg into a bowl and give it a few beats; add two tablespoonfuls of chicken broth or beef ten and salt and pepper to taste. Set the bowl in a pan of boiling water and cook until egg thickens; stirring constantly. Have ready a slice of toast, spread egg on this and serve immediately.

Punch.

To one-half cupful each of milk and cream add one egg and one teaspoonful of sugar. Pour this in a jar, shake thoroughly and serve at once.

MEDITATION OF A MARRIED WOMAN

By HELEN ROWLAND

THE secret of everlasting youth! That is the interesting problem in the world today—yesterday's youth is today's old.

Today, as in the time of Ponce de Leon, men are seeking the fountain of youth all over the face of the globe, in X-rays, in monkey glands, in magic bottles and boxes and mudpucks.

Yet, today as always, any man can find it—his HEART.

Eternal youth is nothing but eternal enthusiasm. Enthusiasm for work, for play, for religion, for anything, for anybody. Even for yourself.

As long as you can THRILL to something, whether golf, beauty, flattery, flirtation, or your job, you are the divine spark of youth.

As long as a woman can powder her nose and peer out of her window and envision herself in a flowered dress not a "flat tire."

As long as a man can see a few strands of hair in the mirror and a radiant cravat beneath it, and vision, he is NOT ready for the immortelles and the silver-handles.

As long as the spark of adventure is working within you interested in a new experiment, a new game, a new idea, life's carburetor has not burst out.

Middle age is not a matter of years, but a state of mind. The ambition, the joy and the zest from which nothing but the last trump will awaken you.

A charmer at twenty need not be a kitten at forty. Juan at twenty need not be a chorus girl's darling; neither of them need be a cynic, a misanthrope, or a mental "relie."

There are LOTS of things to be enthusiastic about: love's young dream and the "Pearly Gates"—between and the last breath.

A man may lose his last hair, his last friend, and his last soul.

A woman may lose her last tooth, her last penny, and even her last lover—but not until she has lost her last spark of vanity does the motor go dead.

The "Fountain of Youth," oh, all ye Ponce de Leon from the waters of enthusiasm!

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Real Life.

THE book is realistic (so the critics all agreed); its words in style artistic flow; it's just the thing we need. Like hot cakes it kept selling and a million maidens read the story it was telling, and a billion tears were shed. It had a thrilling hero and a pippin of a plot, a villain mean as Nero and a weak but harmless sot. It told just how the hero sought his lady's love and trust, while villain cold as zero fought to drag her in the dust. It gave 11 pages to her lovely eyes and hair, the stuff that all the ages through has been the bard's despair. And then it tried depicting how the handsome hero wooed; it's very safe predicting now all old ways are tabooed. At last, to make things snappier, the villain faded out; no pair were ever happier than those that book's about. The book is optimistic and the critics all agreed it's also realistic and it's good for you and me. It's full of love and laughter and his kisses and her eyes, how they lived glad ever after, and that's what the public buys. If real life's what we're trying for, then why not give some space to other things than sighing for a maiden's pretty face? There's much to occupy us as for daily food we dig; such stuff can't satisfy us as real problems loom too big. There's work and faith and hoping for more freedom after while; these things are what we're groping for in realistic style.

DRIED LIMA BEANS.

Soak a pint of dried lima beans overnight. In the morning put them into fresh water and let them boil until they are tender. Drain them and add a lump of butter, pepper, salt, a dessertspoonful of sugar and two tablespoonfuls of vinegar. Serve the beans hot. Or after boiling the beans may be put into a buttered baking dish with a square of well-scored salt pork, seasoned with a cupful of molasses, two teaspoonfuls of sugar, pepper and just very little salt. Fill the dish with the water the beans were boiled in and bake them from two to four hours. Serve them with brown bread.

Helps for the Mother

By Emilie Hoffman

A WOMAN who has had a wide experience with children asserts that 25 per cent of the modern-day kiddies have no regard for the property of others.

It is safe to say that mothers are directly responsible for this. As mothers as a baby is able to handle articles it must be taught not to touch things belonging to others. Little Dorothy grabs a book or anything the mother's admonition, "No, no; you must not touch. That belongs to"—will arrest the child's attention and if the article is withdrawn the child will understand. If the mother does this consistently the child will learn that the articles lying about the rooms are not to be touched. Thus the mother is instilling into the child's mind a respect for the property rights of others. This cannot be too strongly stressed in the family life.

Teach your children that the personal property of each member of the family is sacred and must not be handled without permission. Do not allow children to play with each other's toys or handle books without asking permission from the owner, and as the children grow older insist upon their respecting the personal property of one another.

"Oh, Don won't mind my wearing one of his ties. He isn't here to ask," may be a very true situation, but mother must be firm in demanding that the personal property rights of the absent brother must not be infringed upon.

Jane might willingly permit her sister to wear her bracelet but she would resent the helping-herself attitude of the sister.

LIVING conditions have changed in recent years. Room in small houses and apartments is at a premium, and furniture and fittings must be kept in strict accordance with needs. We must rid ourselves of useless things, furnish our homes in harmony with our environment, and choose to accumulate things for which we have no immediate use.

The big round or oblong dining tables with their extra leaves have had to give way to refectory tables which take up less room, even though they may limit our hospitality, or to tables with drop leaves of the gate-leg variety. The dropping table cloth has also been laid aside for the more convenient dolly sets which are effective and save heavy laundry work.

Among the newest table sets are these made of heavy Russian flannel. This lace may be gotten by the yard, as well as already made up in runners or squares. Many women are making the sets, themselves, and finishing the edges with lace that comes by the yard to match the allover material, or by photographing silk fringes in and knotting it heavily. Sometimes a table cloth is used which exactly fits the
